It is the purpose of MEMORY to recall briefly the rich history of the past hundred years at Oxford; to reflect the incidents and personalities of the past school year; and to sound a note for a still brighter future for our Alma Mater.
DEDICATION

As a token of our sincere appreciation for his valued services as composer of both plot and music for the Glee Club's production, "Springtime," as a consistent supporter of all campus activities, and as a true friend to all students, we dedicate MEMORY, 1934, to Professor Bertram Holland Flanders.
OXFORD

A HISTORY of Oxford through the last century discloses the cultural growth of the Old South. A century ago its pioneer life had no place for the culture of the East; education was not only neglected, but somewhat feared. Various influences such as the influx of immigrants from the North, building of a landed aristocracy, the desire of women for security in the home, and the work of the circuit-rider brought order, and with the growth of Sectionalism the need for education was felt and met. Franklin College, now a part of the University of Georgia, was started in 1801, and Mercer College in 1831.

Manual Labor Schools were coming into popularity at the time. The Methodist Conference, meeting at Washington, Georgia, in 1834, acted upon a report from a committee headed by Ignatius A. Few to found such a school in Newton County, for which a charter was obtained immediately. At this time the Conference made a donation to Randolph-Macon College of Virginia over the opposition of "Uncle Allen" Turner, who insisted that "If education is such a good thing we better have one of our own." Dr. Alexander Means was appointed Superintendent of the Manual Labor School, which prospered at first, but because of a desire for a higher school by the Trustees, the charter was enlarged in 1836 to allow for the erection of a college. This college was named Emory in honor of Dr. John Emory, a late Bishop of the Methodist Church. The town was incorporated as Oxford, the name of the old English seat of learning.

In the spring of 1838 the cornerstone of the first building was laid, with prayers offered that the college should become a strong influence for Christianity.

SENNEY HALL

Built in 1881 as the gift of George I. Seney. It has been used as Library, classrooms, and Administration Building.
Dr. Ignatius A. Few was elected the first President and was succeeded in 1839 by Rev. A. B. Longstreet (1839-48). The first graduating class, of 1841, was composed of only three, but Emory soon equalled the University of Georgia in the number of students graduating. The original buildings were four dormitories and a stewards’ hall. In 1852, under the administration of Rev. George F. Pierce (1848-54), a large central building was built where Seney Hall now stands. The College continued to grow under Dr. Alexander Means (1854-55), who had been the Superintendent of the Manual Labor School, and Rev. James R. Thomas (1855-61).

The College was discontinued in 1861 to allow students and faculty to enlist in the Confederate Army. During the war the Oxford buildings were used as a field hospital for those wounded in the vicinity. The hardships of the Reconstruction era presented many difficulties in reorganization, but in 1866, due largely to the efforts of Professors Stone, Thomas, and L. M. Smith, the college was started again. It began to rise to its former status under Presidents Luther M. Smith (1867-71) and Osborne L. Smith (1871-75), and in 1872 and 1873 Language Hall, the Chapel, and the Science Hall were built.

Rev. Atticus G. Haygood became President in 1875, and under his administration the college curriculum was enlarged. A Thanksgiving sermon delivered by him in 1880 appealing for a New South was published and attracted the attention of George I. Seney, a New York banker, who contributed liberally to endowment and building funds. Seney Hall was built in 1881, and stands today as a splendid college building.

CHAPEL

Built in 1873. Three generations of students have passed through its portals. This is the favorite building of the old graduates who return to sit in the seats they occupied as students.
President Isaac S. Hopkins (1884-89) succeeded Haygood in 1884. Due to his efforts, a technical school was begun at Oxford in the old building which now houses the swimming pool. Thus began Georgia Tech, Hopkins becoming its first president in 1889 when it was moved to Atlanta.

During President Warren A. Candler's administration (1889-98), the curriculum was again expanded and the beautiful Candler Library built. During the administrations of President Charles E. Dowman (1898-1902) and President James E. Dickey (1902-1915) the campus was improved with the building of Pierce Science Hall, later used as a dormitory in 1904; J. P. Williams Gymnasium in 1907; Young J. Allen Memorial Church in 1909; and Haygood Dormitory in 1912.

There was a glamorous atmosphere surrounding Oxford in the days of the college. Many a romance-minded student walked or rode the ancient mule-trolley, called the "hayburner," to Covington to woo the young maidens of the town or the students of the Southern Masonic Female College; often a "rocking battle" ensued between the amorous students and the jealous young swains of the town on Rivers Hill. The "new boy" received his share of attention in such pranks as initiation into the bogus fraternity, Zeta Chi. There were exciting inter-class baseball games, and a few games such as those with the University of Georgia, and the Gate City and Ociola clubs of Atlanta. Chapters of social fraternities were begun at Oxford in 1871 and grew in popularity. Commencements with their class orations, champion debates, and receptions... brought crowds of alumni and belles from all over the state to Oxford for the season. Oxford has always maintained a quiet dignity conducive to study and Christianity reminiscent of the purpose of its founders.

In 1915 it was decided to establish Emory University in Atlanta with the gift of $1,000,000 from Asa G. Candler. In 1919 the college was moved to Atlanta, and Emory University Academy left in Oxford. It prospered under Dr. Sharp and Dr. Reese as a military school of high rating. The military system was discontinued in 1927. In 1928, with the subscription of funds of several old Oxford students, chiefly that of James Fred Allen, Emory Junior College was established on the old campus. Emory Junior College and Academy have prospered under Dean H. A. Woodward and a splendid faculty. The depression has been weathered well, and with the paving of the road between Oxford and Covington to be begun this spring, Oxford looks forward to its next hundred years with the hope that its service to higher education in Georgia may continue.

ALMA MATER

In the heart of dear old Dixie
Where the sun doth shine,
There is where our hearts are turning
"Round old Emory's shrine.
Though the years around us gather,
Crowned with love and cheer,
Still the memories of old Emory
Grow to us more dear.

CHORUS:

We will ever sing thy praises,
Loyal sons and true
Hail thee now our Alma Mater,
Hail the gold and blue.

HAYGOOD

Built in 1912. It has served its place well as the college home for students at Oxford. The inscription on the Haygood Memorial stone is stamped in the minds of the men who pass from Oxford into other fields, "Let us stand by that which is good and make it better if we can."

The Y. M. C. A. was begun in the spring of 1933 when a few students were elected as a temporary council. These were: Hunter, Cullingworth, Orr, Simmons, Stone, Radford, Deadwyler, Veatch, Harbin, Rogers, Collins and H. Smith. During the ensuing summer, these boys wrote letters to all prospective students welcoming them.

In the fall, this group endeavored to aid in the orientation of the new students. A "Y" recreation room was furnished in Haygood, and work began in earnest.

The aim has been to supply Christianity more practically on the campus. To further this aim, we are sponsoring forums every three weeks at which time general problems of the day are discussed.

Although the work is only in its infancy, we hope that the sophomores of next year will continue the work and make us feel that our efforts have not been in vain.

Few Literary Society was organized during the spring of 1839 by eight boys, who saw the necessity of such a society on the campus of Emory. The first meeting was held August 10, 1839, with an initial enrollment of fifteen members. This society was named Few in honor of Emory's first president. The building which Few now occupies was built in 1841. The society was organized for the express purpose of furthering interest in debating and public-speaking. Many great and illustrious men have answered to its roll-call. The name of every Few man is inscribed in the Matriculation Book, which was presented to the society in 1853 by Professor J. M. Bonnell.

Few Literary has grown into a well-organized society. During the present year, the policy of debating has been continued; many interesting and instructive debates have been given. Much credit for the success of Few this year is due to Prof. Ellington, our faculty advisor.

Thus we find Few Literary Society is becoming a more potent factor for the development of men at Emory.
Phi Gamma Literary Society was organized in the spring of 1837 by a few aspiring students who wished to create a place of leisure and study, and an organization for acquainting the members of the society with current events through discussion.

The membership so increased that at the end of two years the society was forced to divide into two parts, the new organization taking the name of Few.

The War Between the States caused a cessation of the activities of the society; the Phi Gamma hall was used as a hospital during the war. It was not until several years afterwards that some loyal students reorganized the society.

The keynote for this year was sounded by Tony Clower in a brilliant and rousing speech for "more, bigger, and better co-eds." Phi Gamma furnished most of the musicians for Sad San Sloan's Syncopating Concert Orchestra. Brilliant orations were delivered often. Harold Smith, one of the few men in the country who understands President Roosevelt's policies, gave several interesting lectures on the N. R. A.

Phi Gamma has produced illustrious sons in the past, among these being Bishops W. A. Candler and A. G. Haygood, and L. Q. C. Lamar, Justice of United States Supreme Court. We hope that in the future the names of some of the present members shall be included in such a list as this.

The Glee Club and Orchestra were combined this year to produce a splendid musical comedy, “Springtime.” The tour for this production consisted of performances at Oxford, Covington, Madison, McDonough, Cox College, Sandersville and other cities. These trips were enjoyed by all.

The year’s most important social event, the Glee Club Banquet for members of the Glee Club, Orchestra and Dramatic Club, was eagerly anticipated. At this banquet charms are awarded to outstanding members of the Glee Club and Orchestra. Winners of the charms for last year were:

PREAMBLE OF CONSTITUTION:

"When in the course of human events it becomes necessary for gentlemen to rid the human race of those unnecessary, atrocious, abominable, self-centered, hypocritical, wretched, deceitful, depraved and absolutely useless parasites called women, we, the undersigned chartered members, having studied the grave situation with the utmost care, diligence and attention to minute detail, do hereby organize, under the high and exalted name, Misogynist (Woman Haters) Club to carry out the aforesaid determination."

Each year the Club voices its disapproval to certain things in its notorious Scandal Sheet. Every student on the Campus fears that paper. Nothing is too bad to be printed in the Scandal Sheet.

The Student Athletic Association is an organization "by the students, of the students, and for the students." It was organized at the beginning of this school year and has made wonderful progress. It is maintained by funds received from membership fees and the receipts of our intra-mural athletic contests. The association also sponsors two basket-ball tournaments each year for high schools in this locality. The net proceeds go into the treasury of the association to forward the athletic program.

The general aim is to give the student an expression in the athletic program other than participation in games. It tries to provide more and better equipment for the student body as a whole. It is our plan to sponsor an invitation tennis tournament, various high schools to come to Oxford and contest with each other.

The president, vice-president, secretary and treasurer of the association, along with two college representatives, two academy representatives and three faculty advisors make up the council. This council meets on the last Monday in each quarter and maps out a program of work for the ensuing quarter.

"A" COMPANY FOOTBALL

"A" Company went through the football season without being defeated. The only thing to mar their record was a 0-0 tie with "C" Company. The team displayed some fine football during the season. A fast backfield used the holes opened by the lines to good advantage and "A" Company was hard to stop on a touchdown drive. Ellis and Miller were the outstanding scorers of "A" Company.

"A" COMPANY BASKET-BALL

"A" Company's basket-ball team worked like a flash the first part of the season and got a good start by beating "B" Company 45-15 and "C" Company 41-16. They slowed up a little in the next two games and beat "B" Company 26-15 and "C" Company 37-25. The next game with "B" Company was the most thrilling of the season. The game was nip and tuck from the first whistle. "B" Company was leading in the last 25 seconds of the game when Orr broke loose from his guard and made a clean shot through the basket to win the game. "B" Company turned the tables on "A" Company in the next game to win 24-9. "A" Company's next games were the usual undaunted ones to come through and win the championship.

The second team of "A" Company followed the footsteps of the first team by winning the second team championship. They had a close race with "B" Company's second team. The two teams were tied until the last game when "A" Company won over "B" Company by a score of 28-14 to win the championship.

"B" COMPANY FOOTBALL

"B" Company went through the season without much success on the scoring end of the game. With a light team, it is hard to buck up against a heavy one, and that is what "B" Company was up against. With the hard driving of Highbaugh and Johnson, they were finally able to make a touchdown against "A" Company, but bad luck seemed to rob "B" Company of a victory. Although "B" had little chance for the championship, it gave both "A" and "C" well-fought games.

"B" COMPANY BASKET-BALL

"B" Company got off to a slow start in basket-ball by losing to "A" Company in their first three games. While losing to "A" Company they were winning from "C" Company. After "B" Company lost their hardest fought game to "A" Company by the score of 28-27, the team began to play ball and they won the rest of their games. After beating "A" Company by the score of 24-9, they ran over "C" Company.

The second team of "B" Company had a very successful season. They lost the championship to "A" Company in their final game with them by the score of 28-10.

"C" COMPANY FOOTBALL

"C" Company was right behind "A" Company when the football season was over. They gave "A" Company several scares during the season by the superb playing of the team. Aided by the fine kicking of Salter and Rogers, and the splendid support received from the line and the other backfield men, the team would get to clicking together some of the time and would go places in a hurry. When they were in a very big hurry to get the ball moved forward a piece, they could co-operate well to drive the ball right on down the field to a touchdown. "C" Company had hopes of the championship up to the last game, but could not meet the attack of "A" Company.

"C" COMPANY BASKET-BALL

"C" Company did not get very far in winning games this year. Confronted with such formidable rivals as "A" and "B" put out and with no outstanding players on its own team, "C" Company went through the season without a victory to its credit. However, "C" gave both "A" and "B" fine games, threatening both with defeat repeatedly up to the last quarter.

"C" Company's second team seemed to follow the example set by the first team in failing to win games. It dropped several games it should have won in the last quarter. One of its best games was with "A" Company's second team, losing 19-17.

BASEBALL

The baseball season ended last spring in a three-way tie among the companies. The games were all close, excellent pitching and fielding being shown at times, and were enjoyed tremendously by the players and spectators. Among the lettermen of last season who will return for this season are: "A" Company—Heard, Eugene Smith; "B" Company—Hunter, J. Parker; "C" Company—Hubbard, and Salter. Each team will receive good new material so the season should be a good one. All companies are anxious to break the tie of last season.

TENNIS

Tennis is probably the most popular sport so far as individual participation is concerned. Last year E. J. C. met Young Harris and Emory in tennis matches. Harwell, Treadwell, Parker, Liggett, Sewell, and Stone participated in these matches.

In this year's fall tournament, Parker, Liggett, Orr, and Treadwell were semi-finalists, Liggett winning and Parker, runner-up. In the fall Doubles Tournament the Liggett-Parker, Hughes-Kidd, Budd-Treadwell, and Sewell-Stone teams were semi-finalists. The Liggett-Parker team won over the Budd-Treadwell team in the finals. Last year's lettermen in tennis were Liggett and Parker, with Harwell awarded honorable mention.

SWIMMING

Swimming arouses its share of interest among the students in the fall and spring. Among those participating in the swimming meet with Emory last year were Sewell, Stone, Collins, McNatt, and Butner. Several boys, including Heard, King, Johnston, Collins, Sewell, Simmons and Veach were awarded certificates in A. R. C. Senior Life Saving. In the fall swimming meet "C" Company won the championship over "A" Company by a score of 39-37.

TRACK

The regular track season is in the Spring Quarter. Two Letter Meets are held. The school participates in meets with Emory Junior College of Atlanta and Young Harris College. Last year Oxford triumphed over Emory by the score of 80-37. A preliminary track meet was held in the fall quarter. "B" Company won the meet by the score of 53-40 from "C" Company. Last year's Track Lettermen returning are Cullingworth, King, and J. Parker.

GYM

Gym work is most successfully carried on under the direction of Prof. Barfield. Gymnastics, tumbling, boxing and wrestling are featured. One of the most interesting programs produced in the fall was Gym Night, as interesting as a circus, and produced by amateur acrobats. The Gym letter is most difficult to earn. Wearers of the letter in Gym are Sewell and Sconyers.

VOLLEY-BALL

Keen interest was aroused in volleyball for the short season immediately after the football season. Some very close and exciting games were played from which "B" Company emerged champions.

GENERAL POINTS

Letters are awarded to the five students who earn the most points in athletic participation each year. Winners of letters in General Points for last year were Leon Park, Joe Parker, Jiles McNatt, Harold Stone and Harold Smith.

The five leaders at the end of the second quarter of this year are: Stone, Sewell, Warnock, Parker, and Kidd.

YESTERDAY, after an absence of twenty years, I stood frozen to the steps of Seney Hall, gazing through a pair of tear-filled eyes at the campus that has since time immemorial been constantly moulding the lives of men. As I stood motionless and in a trance, the Class of 1934 seemed to stroll about the campus, and the events of that year streamed through my memory like a movie film streaming before the shutter of a projection machine. While these memorable treasures were bubbling through my mind, and just as the drenching tears were beginning to blur the picture before me, I was slapped between the shoulders with such stunning vigor that I was in the act of saying, “Lo! Uncle Bob!” when the grey-haired Louis Hubbard stepped before me. Without going into details, suffice it to say that Louis is the Secretary of the Alumni Association, and has the data on all these men who once were boys. I shall relate the “dope” as he related it to me.

By way of introduction, Hester Campbell is an old maid, but still kicking. Yes, kicking. She is hostess at the Oxford Tea Room. Mary Winter, whose last name is quite appropriate, is not only the wife of “Geechie” Smith, but the coach of a whole football team, six referees, and a whole cheering section. And “Geechie” is the cheer leader. “Libby” Hull and Venetia Cook are doing a fan-dance number at Porterdale’s Ninety Night Club. Mary Frances Chaffin and Margaret Williams are in the asylum. Now, now!! You guessed wrong. Mary is the head nurse, and Margaret is the other head nurse. That’s what they told Hubbard last week, but Hubbard grinned when he told it. He was the Ladies’ Man, you remember. Hubbard started to tell me about “Tony” Clower’s vocation, but he blushed and said it would necessarily involve crude language; so he wouldn’t tell. But he did say that Tony had been offering-collector at church, but he had quit the job because they refused to let him “cut” the pot more than four times a month. Zeb Johnston is operating a marble-shooting gallery in Calhoun. Tony McNatt is a bell-hop at the John Floyd Hotel in Oxford. Jodie Heard and Mrs. Heard are proud proprietors of a fortune-telling “joint” at Ranie’s corner. Here’s another tragedy. It’s pitiful. Poor old “Node” Sloan is garbage man at Waynesville, N. C. “Brew” Parker is the head man in a nudist colony. Marion Piper is a tap-dancer at the Emory Coffee Shoppe. “Corn Bread” Dyar is chief rack-boy in a “cue shop” in Calhoun. The life cycle of “Moose Face” Collins would demand tears from an Eskimo dog. It’s a sad story. Well, as many of you know, they caught him. Poor ole “Moose”. He’s in Candler Zoo. We tried in vain to convince the authorities that the thing they had caught was a human. So far, scientists have been unable to classify the beast which is attracting the attention of the scientific world. Some hold that he is a cross between a hyena and a tadpole, but he will always be to us “Moose” Collins.
Coleman Simmons is a “Pill Slinger” at East Point. It is interesting to note that “Doc” and Martha Salter are both teaching school, their own private school. Paul Mayo is growing egg-plants as a career. And, by the way, it’s May-O-Stone, Inc. J. W. Veatch is proprietor of a barroom in Lithonia. Oscar Rogers is a professional gigolo in Sandersville. During the day time he is chief usher in a beauty salon. Theo Manry is teaching French in Paris during the day, and at night he—You guessed it; he does. Charles King is an attorney in Decatur; so the Alumni Association has him working on the “Moose Face” case. Charles is the boy who argues with his shadow, because it won’t get up every morning and let him sleep late. Yet, he says that he’s so busy that whenever he goes home, he bumps into himself leaving, says Charlie.

While participating in a debate, “Teck” Harwell endeavored to prove that the laws of gravity held true for living bodies by jumping from the top of Washington Monument. He proved it. J. B. Godfrey is a stunt flyer for the Flying Circus. “Mopie Joe” Corbett and John “Reuben” Woodward are acrobats for the Ringling Brothers. Imagine “Mopie” hanging by the toes from a trapeze! And can you feature “Reuben” walking a tight wire. Well, you aren’t supposed to believe this, anyway. Here comes news of the “Hot Shot” of yesterday; the man before whom women crumbled like pea leaves in an oven; the man before whom Mae West would melt down like a snowflake on the Sahara desert. The irreversible, irresistible, heart-crushing Charles Deadwyler. Charles is a life-guard at Elberton Beach, where the Savannah River is the only swimming rendezvous, and Polly is the only swimmer. Jimmie Cullingworth, the boy who had high hopes of being Prime Minister of England, is a fish-peddler in Havana. “Red” McGarity is a dietitian on a freight train. Speaking of Senoia, there is a reward of one thousand dollars offered to the first man who can locate it. Detectives have searched in and around Griffin for ten years without the slightest clue. “Dummy” Haisten is selling coffins in Alaska. Earl Highbaugh is a soda-jerker in Dawson and his wife is his best customer. Jimmie Orr, the boy who used to eat the candy and sell the wrappers, is a traveling salesman, selling mice to the ladies who own Persian cats. If Jimmie is keeping to his old policy, he is eating the rats and selling the skins. You can’t get by Jimmie. That sentence even holds true for his basketball. Hubbard has always been a reliable boy, and I am quite sure this “dope” is fairly accurate. “Hayseed” Hunter is still here in school. He is teaching Physics. To many people his first name is Harold, but to us it will always be “Hayseed”.

Hubbard started to tell me the whole story about “Moose Face” but broke down in tears. He was so choked that it was necessary to end the discussion here. So, Fare-Thee-Well.

O. K. L.
DEAR FRIEND:

I am again in Oxford. Its growth may be ascribed to several factors, including the transfer of all the Freshmen and Sophomores of the Emory System to this campus, a great increase in trade brought in after the completion of the highway and airport, and its numerous manufacturing plants. The large cigarette factory was started by a student who did not always find it convenient to go to Covington to get his cigarettes.

Many improvements and additions have been made, the most notable of which are three new dormitories with a radio in each room; a new clock for Seney Hall, it keeps correct time; a huge swimming pool filled with water that is actually warm; and a paved sidewalk between Haygood Dormitory and Seney Hall. (Manufacturers of hip-boots bitterly opposed this last improvement.)

Friday I attended the opening of our largest theater. The picture was "Ladies First", starring that great comedian, Herb Smith, and this morning, strange as it may seem, I received a letter from Herbert saying that Mr. James Sconyers is running a dancing school for chorus girls.

A magazine article I have just been reading is entitled "New and Astounding Discoveries Concerning the Laws of Gravitation," by Dr. Theron McDaniel, head of the Science Department, Northwestern University. Can this be "Mac"? On the back of the magazine is a cigarette ad containing a picture of a beautiful young woman drawn by Laurens H. Laurens, the nom de plume of Harold Stone. He received more money from this hobby of his than from his regular job of athletic director of Emory Junior College.

Bishop Agee next Sunday will conduct the first service in the James Agee Memorial Church. I hope that the service is not too dry, for I'll be there to meet my former classmate. On my trip to Oxford, I stopped for two days at the home of Mr. Julius Liggett, who has become leading horticulturist of Costa Rica since retiring from the Walker Cup International Tennis Team. He has succeeded in propagating an odorless onion, a delicious squash, and a banana with a non-skid tread on the peel. Several oculists discouraged his attempts to perfect a "squirtless" grapefruit. Fernando Lopez, who then was visiting Mr. Liggett, told me of his work on the building of the canal between Costa Rica and Honduras for the United States. Lopez, an engineer of great merit, has also built several of the best highways in Cuba. Rudolph and Julius Hernandez are two of Cuba's greatest capitalists, owning 43% of Cuba's sugar plantations, the Cuban Airways, Inc., and a large radio chain. Their ice business inherited from their fathers, has suffered severely since Mr. Carl P. Talley has begun bringing into Cuba hundreds of tons of ice daily from Greenland in his huge fleet of refrigerated airplanes.

Ambassador Elier Roqueta was on the same ship with me on my way from Cuba to the United States. In a few days he will be in Washington, where I told him to look up Senator Dick Hudson, whose ambition is to be Georgia's contribution to the presidency.

I am glad to know that the members of the Senior Class have become such successful men.

Sincerely,

RALPH R. GILES.

TIME TO RETIRE.
Veatch: "Tired?"
Deadwyler: "No, I'm just running on my rims."

PUL—LEES MR. POWELL.
Prof. Carlton: "Powell, what do you think I am, a fool, or a jackass?"
Powell (after much thought): "I'm not quite sure, 'fessor."

NOTICE ON BULLETIN BOARD.
Students will please refrain from telling jokes to Jim Cullingworth on Saturday evening so that the Sunday morning worship will not be disturbed.
