Nineteen Forty-One

Memory

Emory at Oxford
Only through the medium of the yearbook can days of school life be brought back fully to those who have reached maturity; and as the years pass the annual becomes more and more dear to the hearts of those who took part in the activities that are recorded on its pages.

It is our hope that in years to come the men who are boys now can turn to this book and in a few minutes renew acquaintances that are but pleasant memories—that they can re-live, in every detail, happy incidents that are portrayed here in word and in picture.

In order that the 1941 "Memory" may be successful in its purpose, it must be complete in its representation of the phases of student life at Oxford—scholastic, club, and athletic. It must follow closely the rapid succession of events and weave each and every one of these events into the pattern of a school year that has been fruitful for all.

We have tried to give you a book with these features.

Because the reputation of Emory-at-Oxford is based upon scholastic endeavor, our theme has been centered around the professions for which students are ably prepared here.
Emory-at-Oxford knows the Reverend Forester as our straight-forward instructor and minister. In all his dealings with the students here, he has never been biased or prejudiced. Because of these qualities we label him—honest. In our college life he creates in us the desire to understand better our fellow men through a thorough glimpse of our Creator. For this we label him—beneficent. Because of his unselfish and inspiring attitude, we make this dedication.
As nearly as possible, the campus of our school has been preserved in its natural beauty, a beauty which has received praise from everyone who has visited here. The school is situated on an elevation rising from the center of a small valley, every detail of which can be plainly seen from the tower of Seney Hall. Everywhere around the campus huge, ancient trees tower protectingly and form an impenetrable barrier of green leaves against the summer sun.

Dean Roach is a man of high ideals and moral standards. He himself lives according to these ideals and standards, but with that alone he is not satisfied. He takes a personal interest in every student of Emory-at-Oxford and endeavours to give that student the strength of character, firmness of decision, and unity of purpose that will insure his success—not in the business world alone, but of more importance, in the eyes of all his fellow men.

ORGANIZATIONS
Alpha Epsilon Upsilon is an honorary scholastic society reserved for those members of the student body who have maintained an average of 5.00 quality points per course for three quarters, or 4.25 quality points per course for four or more quarters. All courses at Emory-at-Oxford are thorough, and the members of this society can be justly proud of their achievement.

In the spring of each year Eta Sigma Psi takes charge of one chapel program. After the aims of and qualifications for membership in the society have been explained, the old members walk among the student body, one at a time, and tap the students who have been selected as new members. Perhaps no position in the student body holds more honor than membership in this society.

The members of Eta Sigma Psi are selected on a basis of activity and leadership in things other than scholarship. Those who are selected need not necessarily be popular, but popularity usually follows the traits which are necessary for membership—integrity, reliability, friendliness, trustworthiness, willingness to bear responsibility.

CHRISTIAN FELLOWSHIP

Emory-at-Oxford stresses religion as very essential to a successful and fruitful life, and the students eagerly respond.

The Christian Fellowship is composed of those who are most active in the religious work on the campus and who seek to be fair in all dealings with their fellows. They are recognized as men of the highest character and of the greatest importance to their school.

JUNIOR STEWARDS

The Junior Stewards are active in a capacity similar to that of the Christian Fellowship, except that their work is more specialized in furthering relationships between the student body and Allen Memorial Church.

Emory-at-Oxford is greatly indebted to this church and to its pastor, the Reverend Chas. S. Forester, and through the activities of the Junior Stewards it seeks to be co-operative in every way possible.
The Lettermen's Club was founded for the purpose of giving the outstanding athletes a well-earned place on the Emory-at-Oxford campus. Letters are not given for athletic ability alone. Many things are considered—loyalty, good sportsmanship, and initiative. Once a boy has been found who measures up to these requirements, he is eligible for the Lettermen's Club.

The Presidents' Club was organized for the first time on the campus this year. As the name suggests, the club is made up of the presidents of the classes and all of the clubs and large organizations on the campus. It is, indeed, an honor to be a member of this club because it signifies leadership in the various extra-curricular activities in the

On the Emory-at-Oxford campus in the spring of 1839 Few Literary Society was born. Eight charter members named their "Brainchild" in honor of Emory's first president, Ignatius A. Few. From the first enrollment of fifteen members enthusiasm mounted and membership grew, until in 1841 it was thought advisable to build a meeting place—the present Few Hall. Few's primary purpose was to promote interest in debating and public speaking. Today this is Few's most cherished ideal.

The men who have helped to keep this ideal before Few, and who have carried Few through another year of triumph are its presidents: VanSant, Albritton, Durham.

Emory College was founded shortly after the great Hayne-Webster debate in Congress and while Clay, Calhoun, and other forensic giants were still members of the Senate. The profound interest in debating at that time caused the student body to found, in 1867, a debating society, which was given the name of Phi Gamma. The society has grown considerably since its organization, and its activities cover a wider range of events. The quarterly debate with Few is still marked with rivalry, but the annual banquet has now become a major event of the year. The chief purpose of Phi Gamma is now, and will always be, to give its members experience in public speaking, debating, and parliamentary procedure.

The North Georgia Club is an organization made up of all boys living in the northern part of the state. The membership of the club is large, but all members are continually busy protecting the honor of their homeland from the good-natured insults of other sectional clubs of the campus. Such rivalry makes lack of interest in the club impossible and continued success certain.

There is no pugnacity in the rivalry of this and other organizations on the campus; the members of all clubs are anxious to lend a helping hand to their fellow-students whenever possible and to make the college a compact unit.
Through Augusta, Macon, and Columbus the student body of Emory-at-Oxford has drawn an imaginary line, a line which divides surprisingly different sections of the state, according to those who live on opposite sides of it. Those who live beyond the boundary make up the South Georgia Club and function as an asset to their section. These South Georgians represent a large per cent. of the student body and are constantly asserting their superiority to the “Northerners.” As might well be supposed, the assertion is heartily rebuked.

From the land of sunshine, flowers, beaches, and bathing beauties flock the congenial members of this social club, organized to promote good fellowship among the Floridians in the spirit of “all for one, and fun for all!”

The club’s officers, together with another Floridian, Professor Carlton, acting as faculty adviser, deserve unstinted praise in bringing about a close union among the “shirt-sleeves” from south of South Georgia.
The orchestra was organized this year under the supervision of a new member of the faculty, Mr. Harris. Although hampered by a lack of material, Mr. Harris has been able to show marked progress and to maintain interest among the members of the group.

The quartet is composed of four members of the Glee Club who serve ably as a fill in, accepting invitations to sing when it is impossible for the entire club to perform. Besides its numerous appearances on its own, the quartet is a regular part of Glee Club concerts.

GLEE CLUB OFFICERS—Irwin, Smith, Jennings, Bolton, Burnett, Darden.
Winners of Charm: Bolton, Carter, Darden, Irwin, Jennings, Stanton, Tuck, Wilcox.

With only eight members of last year’s club the Emory-at-Oxford Glee Club has proven its merit. Rapid development has characterized the excellence of the club throughout the year, as evidenced by the campus performances and a very successful touring season.

To Mr. Eady as the capable director of the club, to Mrs. C. S. Forrester as the club accompanist, and to the club as a whole goes much credit.

The officers are: Henry Jennings, President; Buddy Irwin, Vice-President; Hugh Darden, Secretary-Treasurer; Martin Smith, Business Manager; and Jack Burnette, Assistant Business Manager.
In Action

The Fencing Club this year suffered the loss of two of its outstanding members and consequently was greatly hampered at the beginning of the season. However, membership was increased by the addition of several freshmen who developed a love for the sport and showed willingness to work, and the entire club made a conscientious endeavour to improve itself.

Under the coaching of Mr. Jordan, all fencers made rapid improvement in form and ability to make points against opponents, until at the end of the season the team had become fairly proficient.

Most of the members of the Fencing Club will have graduated next year, but the possibilities for its continued success are great through the interest and ability of this year’s freshman group.
Among the students at Emory-at-Oxford there is a variety of hobbies, all of which are of interest to on-lookers as well as to those who work with them. In order that those hobbyists might easily meet and discuss their avocations, the Hobby Club was organized. More than any other organization on the campus, it is a club in which all members can take active participation. Photography has more followers than any other hobby represented among the members of the Hobby Club, but music, model building, dramatics, and many other recreational subjects are popular.

The Phi Delta Omega Pre-medical Society was founded in the winter of 1939 for the benefit of all pre-medical students on the Emory-at-Oxford campus and seeks to give all of them a better understanding of the field of medicine through discussions of the problems of the highly-trained physician of today.

Requirements for membership in the society are high—an average of a C grade through two quarters of pre-medical work is necessary—and membership is limited to thirty-five students, those with the highest grades being selected.

Since it was first begun, Phi Delta Omega has grown rapidly. Of even more rapid development in the future there can be no doubt.
Although the International Relations Club is the youngest organization on the campus, it promises to develop into one of the most worthwhile of the specialized groups. The club has the distinction of being the only Oxford organization that has a national affiliation. It is one of the eight hundred fifty International Relations Clubs throughout the United States and the world which operate under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for international peace. However, the I. R. C. is not a pacifist organization nor an exponent of any of the "isms" which plague the world of today. "The International Relations Clubs are groups of students in universities, colleges, and normal schools for the study and discussion of international relations."

BANQUETS
Although "A" Company did not always come out on top, they furnished good competition and showed true sportsmanship.

The line was strong through the combined efforts of Tate, Hagood, Black, Ellis, and Moreman, who showed both speed and power in either offensive or defensive work.

As captain of the team, Rambo served loyally, setting the pace with hard blocks, true tackles, and long runs.

First row: Youles, Stephens, Hagood, Kirkland, Cowan, Rawlins.
Second row: Dixon, Moreman, Tanner, Tuck, Spier, Rambo, C. Blount, J. Black.

Blount and Spier were the punting stars of "A" Company. Their able work, both offensively and defensively, was worthy of much praise and will long be remembered by their opponents.

The coaching of the team was carried out systematically and thoroughly through the combined efforts of Mr. Brown and Mr. Carlton. Using every player to the best advantage, they built the strongest possible team of the available material.

"B" Company Football Squad

As has been the custom for several years, "B" Company won the football championship this year. It was only through the able captainship of Frank Gore and the good coaching of Mr. Johnson that a well-rounded squad entered the field, never to be beaten.

When the opposition was overwhelming, fast action by linemen Johnson, Padgett, Brown, and Bailes kept the spirit of the team at a high ebb.

The speed and maneuverability of Gore and Cornette was very essential to "B" Company's long, hard drives down the field. When the running attack was stopped, the team took to the air, passes to Bailes and English rarely ever failing to click.

"B" Company combined power, speed, and brains in organizing a team that was able to live up to the precedent set by the squads of past years.
"C" Company's football team this year showed great improvement over that of last year. With such veterans as Albritton, Whitaker, Wilcox, and Abercrombie and new recruits from the freshman class, Coach Ellington soon was able to send forth a formidable squad.

After a slow start, the team came back to closely contest the championship through well-organized offensive teamwork and pretty backfield defenses. The line proved itself capable in breaking up plays of the opposition, and the backfield was always ready to follow up an advantage.

Alternate Captain Hightower was equally adept at plunging through the line and chunking long passes into the waiting arms of Martin. These two players made an outstanding aerial combination.

Captain Albritton, though injured for a time, continuously kept the spirit of the team high, thus aiding a great deal in making this another successful year for "C" Company.

"A" Company, although starting off slowly, finished the season in a blaze of glory, repeating their last year's victory as champions. "C" Company, finishing second this season, proved to be a smooth-working, well-coached quintet, with the boys in blue giving the spectators many a thrill. "B" Company, dubbed the hard-luck team, placed as a formidable foe on the court, despite the fact that they finished the year as trailers.
The tennis team, under the leadership of Mr. Harwell, has had a very successful season. In hard-fought contests they won 11 out of 14 matches.

Baseball has proven, in the 1941 season, to be one of the most popular sports on the campus, with a large number of proficient players representing each of the three athletic companies. Perhaps "B" Company had the strongest team; certainly "A" Company and "C" Company were well represented.

Loadholtes and Hightower were the most valuable men of the season. Representing "B" Company and "C" Company as pitcher and catcher, respectively, they formed an undefeatable combination for the all-campus team.

May 2, on the Emory University campus, an all-star team composed of players from the three companies defeated the Emory Junior College team 9-4, with Loadholtes on the mound, and defeated the Emory-at-Valdosta team 9-0, with Hightower pitching. A gold cup was awarded the team as champions of the Emory University system.

OUR BEST CITIZEN

All desirable qualities were taken into consideration in selecting the best citizen of the college—participation in activities, friendliness, cooperativeness; but moral character was stressed far beyond any of these. The entire student body picked our best citizen—the one with whom they would like best for a younger brother to associate. His name—Speer Burdette.

September 18. Well the lambs are here again for the slaughter. Registration day and everything.

September 19. Everyone is fixed for the year, figuratively and literally. Had I.Q. tests today and received tips not to do so good on them.

September 20. We had our literary society meeting today and it looks like Faw will be the big dog on the campus this year.

September 21. General inspection! You had better wash behind your ears because the Dean has good eyes.

September 22. Went to church today and heard Whispering Charlie preach. Actually had chicken for dinner! Don’t get the idea that it is an everyday occurrence—just Sundays.

September 23. I think that some of the boys are getting that old feeling already. I saw Miss Farns and she seemed sort of downcast. Tsk, tsk.

September 24. Some of the boys have already started prospecting for some good dates. I understand that Mr. Rodney Rucks made quite a hit with Miss Eula Calloway, Nice station wagon, Rod.

September 25. Here come the Sophs: look out, Rats, for you shall be put in your place now.

September 26. We actually have two Co-Eds, Miss Taylor and Miss Ween. They both have received many an admiring glance from the student body (sounds high class).

September 27. By the way, all the time that has elapsed since I started we have been having classes. If you don’t believe me ask Buddy Bishop about Chemistry.

September 28. Ho, Hum! General inspection again and the Dean has to correct a few minor things in a few rooms. Oh, well you can work them off you know. And I do mean work.

September 29. I simply adore Misses Farris’ and Glass’ dancing. They remind me of Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers. Such a grandstand, too, for they live in one of the front rooms.

September 30. Most students have learned the nicknames of all the professors, such as: Jook, Tink, Squire, Duke, Hot Lips, Fuzzy, Gedunk, Curball, Major, Professors Harris and Leconte have been named but the cen索 would not permit. Too bad.

October 1. Fresh have begun thinking of Freshman Week. If they imagine that things are going to be any harder on them than they have I wouldn’t be the least bit surprised to see some of the weaker ones keel over. Yes, Sir!

October 2. Fuzzy said this morning, to illustrate the movement of molecules, that if you dig a ditch from Atlanta to New York three feet deep and one foot wide and each grain of sand was counted, there would not be as many grains of sand in all as there are atoms and molecules in one handful of air. After all, Fuzzy, we are Freshmen and supposed to be dumb, but not that dumb.
October 3. The Dean announced in chapel this morning that it is illegal for two boys to combine their washing. Why, Clifford, I am ashamed of you, to think that you would do a poor washerwoman that way.

October 4. Squire gave us a piece of philosophy today in his chapel talk. Quoted: "You can lead a horse to water but you can't make him drink; you can send a boy to college but you can't make him think," unquote.

October 5. As I was strolling across the campus the other day a thought struck me and I would like to take this opportunity to pass it on to you. Thought: If Ape Wilkinson was sent back to the Jacksonville zoo, what would Emily Meadors do?

October 6. Freshman Week began today and I'll bet fifty bucks that there are some sore heads from the rubber-line and some soaking in alum water of other parts to prepare them for Friday night in Covington.

October 7. They tell me that Harlan Johnston and Foozy love each other—it seems that Harlan tried to kiss Foozy in front of everyone.

October 8. There is the delicate aroma of fresh savory onions around the campus today. I feel like I will never want to see another onion again. Each Fresh, around a neck.

October 9. The day is drawing nearer when the posterior portion of the Rats will be smoking from heat applied with a belt. No buckles allowed.

October 10. We had the dress parade today and Shorty Allen won. He looked like Puss in the Boots with those football pants on. I understand that they used to belong to Cue-ball.

October 11. All the Sophs are going around bragging how they burnt us up. Just wait until next year; we will do the same for the new ones that Cue-ball and Gedunk catch this summer.

October 12. I don't see how Joe Loadholtes and Rambo can go to church looking so saintly after just practically murdering Snider and about seventy-five more.
First row, left to right: All God's chillun got shoes—except these freshmen. . . . from cats, to cadavers, to corpses, in ten easy years.

COMFORTABLE AT ALL TIMES

COVINGTON GEORGIA

October 13. Arch Thomas is going around proudly showing where he got a new birth mark put on him. He is laying odds of two to one that it will never go away. One consolation is that it won't show.

October 14. I understand that Mr. V. T. Chen took some pictures of the Oxford gentlemen that put Tink's car up in the lobby of Haygood. Tink is going around asking the boys about it and then if they deny it he will show them the picture. I believe that I'll slaughter Chen.

October 15. "I thought that I had a pretty good voice until I came to Oxford and tried out for the glee club," said Mr. Gnome the other day. I guess that they don't recognize talent even when it is offered to them on a silver platter. The faculty is all smiles today. Could it be pay day?

October 16. This boy named Kirby Stan makes the rest of the football players look like the Johnny of the Philip Morris program. He stands straight up and wades through B and C company like they weren't there.

October 17. I wish that we could do a few things on Sunday night for a change. These parlor dates bore Bish and a few of his fellow townsmen. Maybe they just don't know their stuff.

October 18. I understand that Frieda Hudson has a girl in Covington that he can tie around his finger. I think that I will take a few lessons from him; the only luck that I have with the fairer sex is to take them to the show.

October 19. What is this rumor that is running the rounds that Miss Ween and Mr. Cobb are going to be married? I believe that Brother Ross is going to be the best man.

October 20. Rusty Belles is one lucky stiff with Mary Lucy Butler madly in love with him. Squire, when asked if he minds getting old, says no, because one either gets old or dies and he prefers to get old.

October 21. Ed Daniels played a concert for the Oxford Women's Club today. I guess that he is going professional on us. Poor Rod, he tries so hard to play the drums and can't. Tsk tsk.

October 22. Perryman has all the rest of us beaten as far as the matter of being collegiate is concerned. He says that he is going to the Dorm, whatever that is.

October 23. Since that Sunday school talk on Africa by Jack Reeve, A-section boys go to his room every night to hear more. Probably to learn more about their ancestors.

October 24. Uncle Billy can really draw. He makes a few lines on the board and by goodness it turns out to be a picture. I don't see how he does it.

October 25. I think that Eula is running some kind of delivery service. I see her bringing some Romeos out about every night. I wish that I could get on the good side of her, too.
October 26. Pokerface Harris refused to smile even when Hansen asked him who he was courting. Vick (short for Victoria the clock) gets the St. Vitus dance with the hands moving madly.

October 27. Here are a few of the characteristics of some of our distinguished Sophs:

Rambo: always humming ducks.

Daisy: can't keep from putting his arms around everyone (probably practicing for the summer).

Jennings: running around the hall yelling (supposed to be singing) "Sweet Adeline."

O'Dell: trotting around trying to strike up a conversation with everyone he meets.

October 28. Ouch! I am sore from the beatings that I received for my remarks above.

October 29. Old Foozy can really roll it out when it comes to formulas. He sounds like the Lucky Strike program. Sold to Virginia!

October 30. Some day Jook is going to make an announcement that I can understand. I hope it seems that you can't even trust your best friend when it comes to women. If you don't believe me ask Speed Burdette and Songbird Jennings.

October 31. I wonder why Waller is always late with the mail. I believe that he burns my letters. There is an old tree on the campus that Billy loves. Ask Tink.

November 1. A suction holds the record for demerits so far. I hope they keep it.

November 2. They have organized a club composed of the unenlightened of our student body. I believe that the membership is limited to those only few that persist in getting on probation.

November 3. Dean Roach must be slipping; he didn't think to put the Fair off limits. I saw a lot of feminine charms and I do mean a lot. Wow!

November 4. Hobby Club organizes tonight. I think that I will join. My hobby is studying, my vacation is sleeping.

November 5. They tell me that we have a good nominee for Sherlock Holmes in Pokerface. He slipped up on Bradley and Rawlings during study hall and caught them in the act of opening a keg of nails. Be careful, boys.

November 6. Miss Giles should be a racing driver. I came very near getting killed the other day. How about not being so reckless, Foozy?

November 7. Price Harnd, the resident doctor, was called out the other night on a case. It seems that a horse was ailing. Price doctored him and when morning came the horse locked up at him and died. Must be that Clark Gable profile. P.S.: I mean his ears.

November 8. Arthur Black fell asleep in Mr. Harris' German class the other day. Pokerface awakened him and started some more of his bull. In a few minutes Skinny was asleep again. Pokerface just marked him absent and continued with his lecture. I bet that Arthur got as much out of the lecture as the ones that kept their eyes open.

November 9. Foozy went to Milledgeville the other day to get a treatment. Seems that the love-bug has him in hand. I hope he recovers.

November 10. Howard Marks, better known as "Lightning," was asked the other day what he was doing in the Academy. He said that he was taking the same thing that he was taking the first of the quarter. He was then asked what he was taking then. He said that he just hadn't had time to find out. He had been studying too hard.

November 11. I don't believe that Joe Loadholtes will ever get to where he doesn't like horse operas. He and Rambo went Saturday. They tell me that these two dignified gents sat on the front row and cheered with the rest of the kids. Some fun!

November 12. Pete Mathies asked Dickie Bay Hamilton for a date last night but she, excuse me, I mean he told him that he already had a date.

November 13. We have one or two freshmen on this campus such as Jack Johnson, Bishop, Reece, and last but not least, Bo-Bo Blount.

November 14. Marcus Sweat, the future General, really likes that army life. He will stand in front of the mirror and salute just like a general. If he can stay out of the Swift Packing plant he might make the army.

November 15. I wish that I could A. K. like some gents of this campus. Sometimes when they run out of new fields to conquer I wish that they would try Tink. If they can A. K. him they ought to run for president. Ask Moore and O'Dell.

November 16. Tom McLain holds the record for mail at one time. He got eight letters at one clip. I don't know whether he writes to girls or whether he attends some correspondence school.

November 17. Poor Lord had one of his teeth knocked out in the football game. I guess that he will recover.

November 18. Duke believes in free speech as long as it is in agreement with him. Don't know that he is right but I don't intend to cross him as long as he teaches.
November 19. There is a general influx of pets in the dormitory. Robert Taylor Hightower has a cat named Cleopatra. One Hightower acts like the garbage man when he finishes his meal wandering around the dining hall looking for food. I don’t know whether he is getting it for his cat or for a midnight snack.

November 20. Phi Delta Omega had a meeting last night in Preacher’s room. They had a little hide-warming exercise for the new members. Wiltshire can swing a belt as well as he can a tennis racket. He lifted Chancey off of the floor.

November 21-25. Thanksgiving. Enough said. Oh boy! Four days of freedom.

November 26. Back to the grind with more work to do then we know what to do with.

November 27. Cue-ball has the wrong idea about inspection. He moves your trunk to find it.

November 29. Squire had a mule once that was blind. One day he was out with a friend looking at the mule. The mule ran into a tree and the friend asked Squire if he was blind. Squire said, “No, he just don’t give a damn.”

November 30. Thanksgiving day in Florida. I sure wish that Roosevelt would let the calendar stay put. I’m homesick.

December 1. The new lettermen have been selected and talk about an initiation, they have one. Snider was hollering about what a hard time he had Freshman Week. He ought to win a letter. Then he could really yell.

December 2. They tell me that the pool is heated. The only heat in that body of water is caused by friction.

December 3. Some of the gay blades went out to “ma’s” today so that they could do a little dancing. Hosch Davidson, Durham, and Moore scare Foozy to death with the tale about Hosch being put in jail.

December 4. Spell said that he is going to sell his roll-your-own machine. It does look like some of the local bums could furnish their own tobacco.

December 6. Carl Blount had better watch his language or he will get a boat ride home by ship.

December 7. The Portersdale boys have sent a warning to Oxford today telling them to stay away from there. It seems they can’t stand competition.

December 8. Poor “Vogie,” he just can’t stay on the water wagon.

December 9. The star of Cue-ball’s gym class is Austin Dean. He can turn a flip like a professional tumbler.

December 10. I can’t understand why Bob Strickland likes to stop just this side of Covington every time he goes to town.

December 11. James Hudson really has a beautiful boat to fish in when he gets home. I envy him.

November 20. Phi Delta Omega had a meeting last night in Preacher’s room. They had a little hide-warming exercise for the new members. Wiltshire can swing a belt as well as he can a tennis racket. He lifted Chancey off of the floor.

November 21-25. Thanksgiving. Enough said. Oh boy! Four days of freedom.

November 26. Back to the grind with more work to do then we know what to do with.

November 27. Cue-ball has the wrong idea about inspection. He moves your trunk to find it.

November 29. Squire had a mule once that was blind. One day he was out with a friend looking at the mule. The mule ran into a tree and the friend asked Squire if he was blind. Squire said, “No, he just don’t give a damn.”

November 30. Thanksgiving day in Florida. I sure wish that Roosevelt would let the calendar stay put. I’m homesick.

December 1. The new lettermen have been selected and talk about an initiation, they have one. Snider was hollering about what a hard time he had Freshman Week. He ought to win a letter. Then he could really yell.

December 2. They tell me that the pool is heated. The only heat in that body of water is caused by friction.

December 3. Some of the gay blades went out to “ma’s” tonight so that they could do a little dancing. Hosch Davidson, Durham, and Moore scare Foozy to death with the tale about Hosch being put in jail.

December 4. Spell said that he is going to sell his roll-your-own machine. It does look like some of the local bums could furnish their own tobacco.

December 6. Carl Blount had better watch his language or he will get a boat ride home by ship.

December 7. The Portersdale boys have sent a warning to Oxford today telling them to stay away from there. It seems they can’t stand competition.

December 8. Poor “Vogie,” he just can’t stay on the water wagon.

December 9. The star of Cue-ball’s gym class is Austin Dean. He can turn a flip like a professional tumbler.

December 10. I can’t understand why Bob Strickland likes to stop just this side of Covington every time he goes to town.

December 11. James Hudson really has a beautiful boat to fish in when he gets home. I envy him.

December 13. Mr. Roach said the other day that Bill Ross spent a whole period taking a Spanish test. When he finished he discovered that it was French instead of Spanish. He said they're both Greek to him.
December 14. Country Boy Conner was homesick the other day and Jack asked him why he was. He replied that his sow had just been blessed with ten little piglets. He didn't think that anyone could take care of them as well as he could. Christmas party and did we have fun! We who are about to flunk salute you. But, by gosh, I bet that we will have just as big a time at home as the ones that don't flunk.
December 15. A bouquet to the Glee Club for Carol program.
December 16. Florida boys start looking for that snow Cue-ball promised them.
December 17. The first day of exam week and of all the cramming you have seen, you should walk around a little while. Perryman said that he caught a rabbit down at the cemetery and cut off his left hind leg so that he would have good luck on his exams. I imagine that it will take more than that for all of us.
December 18. Everyone too busy doing nothing worth mentioning—just studying.
December 19 and 20. Phi Gamma wins the quarterly debate. This usually happens.
December 21. Home again, home again I go. Whoopee!

January 1. I don't know what happened on the Epochal day I was home. If you really want to know what I was doing come to the room sometime. Or better still write Santa Claus.
January 2. Most of the stragglers back. Dean announces that he would like to see us in his office at our earliest convenience. Ha, he.
January 3. Been back two days and they tell me some of the boys really did some looking around while home.

January 4. Some of the gents have started going with a gill here in Oxford that owns a dairy. How about it, Tanner?

January 5. Foozy holds his cigarette like a novice, but I bet he is just trying to act young and innocent. If the draft gets him he will not have to worry about how he holds a cigarette but how he holds his gun. I would like to be his sergeant for a little while. I would try some of the formulas out on him in the form of commands.

January 6. "A. K. A. K." that is all some of the boys do around here. With Mr. Harris and Freeman together it sounds like a couple of Nabs. I hope you get that "A," Freeman.

January 7. It seems that a certain young gentleman had a date with Martha Patterson the other night and there was some mud on the ground where she wanted to walk. She asked him to carry her across the puddle but he would not. Another boy offered to assist her across and things went their merry way. That is an example of what Oxford will do for you isn't it, Mooch?

January 8. The eyes and ears of Oxford seem to belong to Red Morgan. Ask him about it sometime. Who needs 1st floor Pierce—all of Pierce, rather—O'Dell?

January 9. The name "Red Heart" should never be used except on a radio program. So says Duke. Who is that T. C. Hochen talking about? An acquaintance of Van Sant?

January 10. "Wear your own" seems to be a forgotten motto with Rucks. I have seen him with clothes that belong to every one on the third floor of Pierce Dormitory.

January 11. Another day for one of Cue-ball's thoughts to strike him. One of these days one is going to knock him down (I hope).

January 12. It has been said that the Dean is going to install an altimeter in his car so that he won't fly so low.

January 13. The students are wondering if James Bennett will break Joe Loasholtz's basketball record next year.

January 15. If anyone sees a tall man wandering around on the campus acting like a chicken with his head cut off, it won't be a spy: it will probably be Duke walking to class because his better half needed the car.

January 16. Turk lost his long talked of freedom this year and now the next sucker is either Harris or Foozy. My money is on Foozy.

January 17. Foozy burnt his chemistry classes up today. Mrs. Brown says, "he seemed them." Even the A. K.'s made low on it.

January 18. There is a rumor running the rounds that Oxford is going to have C.A.A. next year. If you hear something that sounds like an airplane it is only Jack Snyder practicing by remote control. Of course he took time out from his studies.

January 19. I actually heard Cobb say dam the other day. He missed a shuttlecock while playing badminton. Tick. Tick.

January 20. I wish that the faculty would stop using profanity in their talks. I might get the awful habit and then where would I be? Besides on restriction.

January 21. This game basketball is really exciting, especially when it is played the way Highower and Joe play.

January 22. Yank Grant looked mighty pretty taking up collection in church today. I don't see how they can trust him. I guess that they are running short of ushers.

January 23. One of our most erudite gentlemen by the name of Preacher said the other day, quote: "H—h, I came up to see some snow and all I have seen so far is this blanketly blank Georgia clay," unquote.

January 24. Reid looks like he has taken lessons from a banty rooster the way he dances around in the ring. But anyway he gets results so they tell me. How about it Dixon?

January 25. About time for probation exams. Ouch! roommate, don’t throw that book at me for bringing up such an unpleasant subject.

January 26. That convertible that Mormon has is the stuff. If I had that I would either be in Macon or Atlanta every night after lights. That is—-as long as I could get away with it.

January 27. Mamma, what are square marbles? I heard some of the boys say that they were going to play some.

January 28. Hathcox got cleaned and not by Waller.

January 29. Warning! Don’t play pool with Bradley. He is good, if in doubt ask Rawlins.

January 30. I wonder when some of the geeks will catch on to the idea that it is necessary to check out on a leave. Why Mr. Shinall had to phone from Atlanta to check out. Watch out, boys.

January 31. We are up to our necks in probation exams and believe me we are worried. Look out Bradley and about twenty-five others.

February 1. Still out of news, but I have heard that the Dean has a good right hook.

February 2. Wonder why Jook comes fire-crackers around with him. Is it to use on Arrow?

February 3. Saw Footy beating Arrow today. As far as we are concerned he could beat him to death.

February 4. I can’t believe that Pete actually studied for one hour the other night. Glee club leaves on Florida Tour.

February 5. I sure booked Bish the other day. In a Spanish test he thought that he would do a little picking over my shoulder. The joke is that I flunked it and he did too. Ha Ha.

February 6. Talk about colloquialisms, you should go to Gid Parrish’s room.

February 7. Is it true that Hot Lips actually turned his English class out on time the other day? I can’t believe it. Glee Club returns. Wild tales begin.

February 8. It seems like we aren’t good enough to ride with some of the teachers from out here. How about a little cooperation so that we can save a little taxi fare. Wild tales continue about Glee Club trip.

February 9. They tell me that A-section is a dangerous place to be in when war is declared. I sure hate to have water shot all over me. McClain is a crack shot. I saw him shooting flies off of the wall the other day.

February 10. What is going to happen when Dixon does not go to sleep in church? I know what is going to happen if he gets caught at it.

February 11. Footy gives his class the hot foot again today with one of the hardest tests that he has ever given.

February 12. There is a rumor around that Pokerface is engaged. I will bet that she got the worst of the deal. Wilcox and others still talking about Glee Club trip. Hint: Student body is “fed up” by this time.

February 13. Barney got a big box the other day full of good things to eat. By the time that it was unpacked it was all gone but one hard-boiled egg.
February 15. Lotus Scott returns for a visit and brings tall tales about the virtues of Big Emory. I will find out next year.

February 17. Trotter got a letter today and is he happy. They say that Mr. Strozier's new baby is the cutest thing in the world. Hint: I sure could use an "A" in Economics.

February 18. Mr. Wiley's second sermon was better than the first. This can't keep up because the one we had yesterday sure was a pip. I don't understand why he is called the late Mr. Wiley in his home town.

February 19. Basketball has been unanimously selected the sport of the quarter with A company coming out on top.

February 20. H. S. Sweat was selected the best looking boy on the campus by the Blah Blah Club, an organization composed of the blind boys of the campus. Nice going, Mark!

February 21. Friday night again and the Oxford hitchhiker troops set out to town.

February 22. The catalog said Oxford has a mild climate. Well, the catalog said a lot of other things, too, didn't it?

February 23. Man, Oh! man, did you see what I did today? A whole carload of G. S. C. W. girls. I like the little blond myself.

February 24. Strange as it may seem the eight boys that Lundeen was entertaining in his room tonight did not get caught. LeConte must be slipping.

February 25. Tink discovers his history classes can spell "Jerusalem" twenty-one different ways. At least they know something.
February 26. Hathcox got his first dent:ent tonight. It was for a major disturbance.

February 27. Budette prepared his psychology collateral in one hour and a half. Some reading. Speer. Few wins a debate and this is news.

February 28. At last some excitement around this hole. Palmer Stone burned down at three in the morning and every one went down to help fight fire. Faculty sleeps on.

March 1. I started to write February 29, but remembered it's not leap year, in spite of what Eula thinks.

March 2. It's about time for those come-back meals to begin.

March 3. In the spring a young man's fancy turns lightly to love or something or other. Jennings is the first victim. Who is it, Mary Anne?

March 4. By the way, does that picture of Mary Anne Roach belong to Jennings or Daney?

March 5. Gosh! what a bout between Reid and Dixon today. That Dixon is some boxer but Reid is just too good for him.

March 6. Ann Carlton wasted more energy chewing that gum than Corbett used while boxing.

March 7. The letterman's program today caused many blazes on the countenances of the audience when Hosch slipped up on an uncensored joke.

March 8. Whispering Charlie had better not express his opinion so freely around Cobb. He said something the other day about the lend-lease bill that James did not like and Cobb was ready to fight.

March 9. Casanova, Moore, Meadows, and Starr dined with the Patterson menage tonight. Looks like Ma is roping steers three at the time. Debate club leaves for trip to G. S. C. W., Mercer, and Middle Georgia.

March 10. Flash! Special news flash! We interrupt the regular program to bring you this news item. Larry Hagood and John Madden seriously injured when they bump heads while diving for a duck.
March 11. The annual cross country race was held today and Flash Corbitt is unbeatable. With Hosch and Johnston close second and third, Bishop also ran. Cakes to winners.

March 12. Squire brings his French class a Greek grammar to show them how well off they are. Still Greek can't be any worse than those irregular verbs.

March 13. Today is Sunday and it looks like we could play tennis or something. No racquets permitted but brooms required. It's a gyp.

March 14. Why does that old moon get full on the night that I can't go out. I guess that darkness is very useful to some of the boys around here on some of their dates.

March 15. One of the Smith boys was seen flirting with a girl on the streets of Atlanta the other day but she knew that he was a moocher and gave him the cold shoulder. Ha, Ha.

March 16. The frequency with which they serve goat around here makes us think that we are in Switzerland instead of Oxford.

March 17. As blue a bunch as was ever seen around here came out of Strozier's economics class this morning. What's wrong, boys? It is not as easy as they say, is it?

March 18. Irwin repays; he is at last allowed to go to Covington without sneaking in the back door. He is off of probation. Good for you, Buddy.

March 19. Back in the Dorm after having the grandest time ever. Dean started things off with a warning to let the squirrels alone.

March 25. You should hear some of the stories that are being told about the spring holidays. It is a good thing that the Dean has not heard any of them or there would be some trips home.

March 26. The campus co-eds are wishing the new co-ed trying to get her to join their sorority. You know the co-eds we mean, Farris, Hamilton and Summerour.

March 27. The mysterious case of Freddie Darsey and we do mean mysterious.

March 28. Poor little Pat got stood up tonight. Black couldn't leave his room he was so sick.

March 29. Lettermens' banquet tonight and it seems that everyone is going to have a good time.

March 30. They did.

March 31. Shinall and Groover return from a week-end and leave as sober as judges.

April 1. David Jackson got an "A" on a trig test today. Wow!

April 2. Lundeen is rapidly developing into a model prisoner. He hasn't quite learned the lock step yet but he will. Glee Club leaves on Tennessee trip.

April 3. Jock nearly turned over lab today when he was demonstrating his strength. After the books stopped falling, he calmly remarked, "I'll guarantee that I will keep you awake in my class."

April 4. The Dean made a request today of the boys that are fortunate enough to have a girl to play tennis with. "Boys, when your girls come to play tennis with you have them wear dresses or slacks, anything but shorts. Someone else might want to play tennis and you can't do two things at once."

April 6. Hot Lips can really play a baritone horn. He serenaded us the other day on one out in front of Haygood.

April 7. Had a cut in economics today as Gedunk went fishing.

April 8. The two big game hunters, Reeve and Parrish, caught more than moths the other night in the form of demerits.

April 9. All of these party pals that dyed their hair remind me of the last race of summer.

April 10. Bill said that Economics is the best course on the campus. You can sleep through Gedunk's lectures three days a week and on the other two days you get cuts while Mr. Strozier fishes a little.

April 11. The above was overheard in a bull session between Davidson and Durham. Yours truly heard Jack say that he wished Footy was as good a teacher as Gedunk.

April 12. The tennis team got off to a good start by beating South Georgia in their first match today. It looks like we will have a good team this year.

April 13. Cue-ball is really preparing the baseball squad for Junior College week-end. Loadholts said that he was going to get tired of pitching one of these days if Cue-ball didn't start giving him a day's rest between each week's "chunking."

March 26. The campus co-eds are wishing the new co-ed trying to get her to join their sorority. You know the co-eds we mean, Farris, Hamilton and Summerour.

March 27. The mysterious case of Freddie Darsey and we do mean mysterious.

March 28. Poor little Pat got stood up tonight. Black couldn't leave his room he was so sick.

April 14. Don't know what kind of a fencing team Jock will have this year. They say Trotter is one of the roughest.

April 15. Wilcox announced the new members in Phi Delta Omega today in chapel. Looks like quite a crew to be initiated. Isn't that right, Willie?

April 16. We're about to finish probation exams. Flash! Benny English comes off probation and Clifford Martin makes the merit list.

April 18. Everybody left today. Reckon they're celebrating after those probation exams.

April 19. Phi Delta Omega banquet tonight. They say Durham had a big time. How about it, "Bull?"

April 20. Mr. LeConte told Hosch to keep his dog out of the dining hall. If dogs bother him, I wonder why he doesn't tell Fossey to keep Arrow out.

April 21. What's this I hear about a little girl in Covington running after Sandeford? Tell us all about it, Billy.

April 22. Miss Adams announces that supper will be served on the lawn below Pierce Dormitory on this Saturday, Bo-Bo, do you reckon you can wait that long?

April 23. Benny English said that if Dean Roach started teaching his math class he was going to write his folks that he was coming home.

April 24. Loadholter asked Tink the other day when he was planning to have the all-campus tennis tournament. Joe wants to see if he can give Cobb a better battle this year.

April 25. Had the outdoor supper late this afternoon. Really had plenty to eat. I really enjoyed it, Ma.

April 26. Last night Wiltshire and Loadholter checked in late off of S. P's. From what I hear, Abercrombie wouldn't pick them up in Covington at 10:30. Just think "Ab." they might lose some of their privileges that you could have saved them.

April 27. From now on I think Rambo will sit up in chapel. Mr. Roach scared him a little the other morning, nice feeling, eh, Sammy.

April 28. Wonder how Fuqua is doing with his dry cleaning now? Some say that Hosch and Waller ran him out in Haygood.

April 29. Jesse Moore gave a talk in chapel this morning that made everybody howl. He really put the B. M. O. C's in their place. Nice going, Jesse.
April 30. Bouquets to Cleveland for doing such a swell job of managing the tennis team this year. We are proud of you and the rest of the team, Pearce.

May 1. The Dean made it clear in chapel what we are to do and what we are not to do in Atlanta this week-end. I really don't believe he trusts us.

May 3. We win again. Our boys won the track meet. They almost did the impossible—eh, Squire.

May 4. Well I have just about reached the end of the chain and I want to thank the sponsors and the whole student body for their kind cooperation. Still, we're glad we're anonymous, and this ain't no bull!
