Curry T., Call Surgery!
Jaybird Flew the Coop!
My name is Luke Emia Interne. I typify the pre-med student of this campus who, especially after exams, feels that he needs a little medical attention himself—mental as well as physical. You will see my medical associates appearing in various places and poses through the pages of this book, which, by the way, I was asked by the staff to vitalize with a shot of adrenalin here, a vitamin pill there, and generous applications of smelling salts everywhere. However, confidentially this MEMORY double-crossed me by developing into such a healthy specimen that I was left without a patient. Foiled in this, I at least expected nothing short of the pleasure of operating on the staff members if they should manage to survive the ordeals of meeting various publication deadlines and financial crises. But alack and alas! They are all beyond medical or pathological care—what they need is a psychiatrist!

Your MEMORY staff tells me that they have tried something new in the way of a yearbook this year. It’s not perfect by any means, but the staff thinks that it accurately and sincerely portrays student life here at Oxford. But find out for yourself—just follow me!
DEDICATION

In the years to come, the thought of Mrs. Ellis will be synonymous with the thought of Emory-at-Oxford. There is hardly one among us whose life has not been enriched by Mrs. Ellis’ friendship. She is always ready with her kind smile and sincere encouragement to help us solve any problems which confront us in our daily living. Mrs. Ellis is a living example of Christianity, and this, plus her many other wonderful traits, makes her our best “doctor.” Emory and its students are as close to her heart as she is to ours.

Because of our love for her and our desire to express our lasting gratitude to her, we wish to dedicate our 1950 MEMORY to Mrs. Ellis.
Because of his Christian character, his rare devotion to his chosen tasks, and his unselfish dedication to the goal of abundant life for others, Dean Eady has been an inspiration and a blessing to all who know him.

SUB-FRESHMAN HAYRIDE ACTIVITIES...
The Student Activities Council is relatively new on our campus, having been in operation only three years. This council serves as a liaison between the students and faculty, and it furthermore tends to promote a higher degree of school spirit here at Oxford. Every chartered organization on the campus is permitted on representative to the SAC, and the Student Body President serves as chairman of the group. This council, in addition to being the governing body of the school, also sponsors the social activities held throughout the year. The faculty sponsors of the SAC are Professors Light, Kennedy, Elizer, Pickett, and Rev. Thompson.
Every school boasts of its “brains.” Here at Oxford we have two boys who have claimed this title and have become members of AEU. For recognition in this organization a student must have maintained an average of AB for three quarters and ABB for four or more quarters. Faculty advisors for this club are Professors Carlton and Wiley.

Eta Sigma Psi

Since its beginning in 1930, Eta Sigma Psi has had one purpose—to choose from the student body those who are outstanding on the basis of personal character, scholastic record, prominence in student activities, and service to the institution. Membership in this honorary society is recognized as the highest honor an Oxford student can attain. Mr. Carlton and Mr. Eady serve as faculty advisors.

Phi Delta Omega

In 1940 Phi Delta Omega was organized for those students who are pre-medical and pre-dental. Its purpose is to acquaint its members, through lectures and discussions held bi-monthly, with the new advances made in their respective fields. The members are selected on a basis of a B average in the sciences and an overall merit list average. Faculty advisors are Professors Light, Haynes, Loyalty, cooperation, good sportsmanship, and athletic ability are the qualities displayed by these wearers of the Emory “E”. The purpose of this organization is to promote better sportsmanship among the intramural teams. Lettermen’s initiation is looked forward to with interest by the student body, but not so by the initiates. The highlight of the year’s activities is the annual banquet held in the spring quarter. The faculty advisor is Mr. Brown.
The Glee Club is outstanding as one of the more popular organizations on the campus, as evidenced by its large membership. The club is made up of students who have a mutual interest in music and singing. This group provides the music for all chapel and church services, and it also participates in many off-campus functions. Tours throughout the state help to create a greater interest among the club members. Together with the LaGrange College Glee Club, our club presented Handel's "Messiah" as their Christmas program. The highlight of the year is the annual banquet held during the spring quarter. Mr. William Kennedy is the director of the club.
From the "Playground of the South" come these fun-loving boys to share with us their gay manner. The Florida Club was organized in 1937 to better acquaint the Florida boys one with another. The club is proud of the leadership taken by its members in campus activities, but it is most proud of their matchless ability to work amiably and cooperatively with the faculty and fellow students.

Student Artist Lecture Association

The S.A.L.A. was organized in 1946 in conjunction with the Covington-Oxford Artist Series. Its purpose was to aid in the cultural development of the students and to give them a higher appreciation of the fine arts. This organization sponsors a varied group of artists, performers, and choral groups throughout the school year. Mr. Baker serves as faculty advisor for this group.

International Relations Club

The members of the International Relations Club are proud of the fact that theirs is the only organization on the campus with a national affiliation. Operating under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for World Peace, this club offers a program whereby its members can meet and discuss current international problems. Membership is by invitation, and in order to be eligible for membership, a student must have maintained a C average. Mr. Kennedy, Mr. Wiley, and Mrs. Hinton serve as faculty advisors.

The prime objectives of the Debate Club are to increase student interest in public speaking and to hold discussions on current events and issues. Informal debates are held during the regular meetings, while members of the club engage in more formal debates in literary societies. Mr. Pickett is the faculty advisor for the group.

Left to right: Crawford, Pass, Smith, Vickery, McLendon, President, Hodge, Jarrell.
It has been the endeavor of the 1950 MEMORY Staff to give the student a yearbook from which he can derive great pleasure in the future. We sincerely hope that we have achieved our purpose, thereby permitting a student to revive pleasant Memories of campus life at Oxford by his turning through the pages of this book.
The staff wishes to express its indebtedness to all students and faculty members for the sincere cooperation and encouragement they have given us. Had it not been for them, our book would never have become a reality.

Since its beginning in 1839 Phi Epsilon Upsilon Literary Society has had as its objective the promotion of friendship between members and the development of interest in public speaking. Through the past years this society has been a leader among organizations on the campus, having sponsored dances, initiations, debates, and other campus activities.

The meetings of Phi Epsilon Upsilon are held each Wednesday night in Few Hall, and the programs presented then are both entertaining and informative. Mr. Pickett and Mr. Strozier are the faculty advisors.
Phi Gamma

Phi Gamma was organized in 1837, which makes it the older of the two societies on the campus. It was founded for the purpose of developing extra-curricular activities in forensics—debating and public speaking. Although the members of the society have been inactive during the Fall quarter, renewed interest is now being shown in the society.

Weekly meetings of the society are held in Phi Gamma Hall, which is also used as a recreation center for all students. Mr. Baker and Mr. Brown are the faculty advisors.
Photography Club

One of the friendliest and most informal clubs on the campus, the Photography Club is composed of students brought together by their common interest in photography. Meetings are held bi-monthly, and enthusiasm has been greatly increased due to the recent purchase of a new enlarger which was placed in the club's private darkroom. The faculty advisor for this group is Mr. Light.

Christian Fellowship

At Emory-at-Oxford a student has a well-balanced life of study, sports, and religion. The Christian Fellowship is a non-denominational religious organization which works toward a greater spiritual fellowship among the students. Through its weekly chapel services and various socials, the group has influenced the lives of students in many ways. The faculty advisors are Mr. Dickey, Mr. Jarrard, and Rev. Thompson.
Ministerial Club

The Ministerial Club is an organization of those men who have dedicated their lives in the Kingdom of God. They uphold the highest of Christian ideals, and the club serves as a stimulus for much of the religious activity on our campus. Mr. Brown, Mr. Strozier, and Rev. Thompson are faculty advisors for the group.

Junior Board of Stewards

The Junior Board of Stewards serves to bring the students on the campus and the members of Allen Memorial Church closer together. This organization performs various duties for the church, and it sponsors worthy projects each quarter. The project for the Fall quarter was the presentation of a bicycle to the Methodist Orphanage in Decatur.

FOOTBALL SCORES

The rivalry between the intramural football teams was strong this season, but the competition was keen and friendly. When the opening game ended in a 0-0 tie, there was still no indication as to which company would be victorious at the season's end. But the second game proved to be quite different, with B Company defeating A Company 25-6. B Company had already won the championship when C Company gave them their first defeat of the season with a score of 12-0.

Scores from the games are listed below:

| A Company | 0       | C Company | 0       |
| A Company | 6       | B Company | 25      |
| B Company | 6       | C Company | 0       |
| A Company | 0       | C Company | 32      |
| A Company | 0       | B Company | 13      |
| B Company | 0       | C Company | 12      |

CROSS COUNTRY RACE

In the annual Cross Country Cake Race, Robert Garner came in first and received a gold medal. Bill Gardner took second place in the event and was awarded a silver medal. Ten cakes were presented to those participants who crossed the line immediately following Gardner.

BASKETBALL SCORES

The basketball championship was won this year by A Company. As shown by the scores, the games were all exciting and hard-fought. Members of the winning varsity team were: Bill Hendry, Captain; Myles Hutchinson, Richard Stewart, Bill Cowan, James Leveridge and Roger Thompson.

Paul Garcia was elected by a majority vote of the student body as the sophomore who is most representative of Emory-at-Oxford students. He justly deserves this honor given him by his schoolmates, a fact proven by his excellent leadership, scholarship, and character. He is the student to whom we can proudly point and say, “There goes Emory.”
The eight sophomores on these pages have been elected to the 1950 HALL OF FAME by the student body of Emory-at-Oxford. In the selection of these students all desirable qualities were taken into consideration—participation in activities, cooperativeness, friendliness, and moral character. All members of this group have made notable contributions to campus life here at Oxford, and for their efforts they have received the highest honor their fellow students can bestow upon them.
Sept. 26. Freshmen arrive. Dot rushes out to greet two newcomers. After welcoming them to campus, she discovers they are laundrymen. Freshmen plodding wearily toward dormitory carrying books remarks, "Whew! Now I understand why we must have a physical before entering school!" Toward sunset sophomores begin to drizzle in.

Sept. 27. Remainder of sophomores arrive. Costas orientates Prof. Kennedy while Mr. Pierce orientates gullible freshmen. Sophomore with freshman roommate: "Boy! Does my roommate look stupid!"

Sept. 28. Classes begin. Word comes by way of the grapevine that only needy boys will be allowed to have laundry agencies. Stancil wishes to retain his laundry agency as he is needy. Says his father won’t give him a cent for whiskey and beer.

Sept. 29. During German class Prof. Jarrard gets in plug for BLITZ, The Beer That's Blitzerized. Sparks and partner decide to "take in" a couple of freshmen for a pool game. Get skunked twice before quitting.

Sept. 30. Prof. Elizer’s jackasses starve to death. “B” section has an epidemic of crawfish—in everyone’s beds. Somebody made a trip to the creek.

Sept. 31. Emory-at-Oxford sneaks over the fence and takes in the Covington-Monticello football game. Has a larger cheering section than Covington. Pecos Willie loses watch climbing over fence and is aided by friends and local Boy Scouts in finding it.

Oct. 2. Brilliant piece of philosophy from faculty member: “It’s better to sleep through church in church than in bed.” Freshmen’s jaws drop to lowest level when they see their Sunday “supper” in the dining hall.
Oct. 3. Prof. Pickett inquires of Mr. Baker if appearing busy is a fine art here. At carnival: Mr. Brown glances longingly at outside of Hootchi-Kootchi show. Mrs. Brown grabs him by the hair of the head and takes him to the horse show.

Oct. 4. Dietitian: “Now you boys eat everything on your plate and you'll be pretty.” Then to S.M., “I'll bet you have always eaten everything on your plate.” The Field Marshal finally cracks under the strain. He is seen chasing a squirrel from Haygood to the library. When questioned afterwards, he admitted being hungry.

Oct. 5. Campaign speeches at Phi Gamma. Huge crowd as usual. Students hanging out of the windows and milling around the front of the building.

Oct. 6. Lights go off during supper. Amid rantings and ravings of students there arises a voice to still the tide: “Aw, shadod and eat! You know where your mouth is, don't you?” Lights go off again at 10:59 P.M. Students with tests hatch up plot to refuse to take them.

Oct. 7. Students take tests anyway. In psychology class Prof. Strozier introduces unknowing freshmen to the “more or less” school of thought.

Oct. 8. Eleven orphan boys from Decatur begin week-end visit to EAO. Eleven men from school hesitatingly agree to act as big brothers to them. After being with the boys a few hours, the Emory men decide that this big brother business is a pleasure rather than a duty.

Oct. 9. Tears can be seen among both little and big brothers as the little brothers depart for home.

Oct. 10. Mr. Elizer instructs students that they are not to take their girl friends into dormitory rooms. Freshmen are disappointed; sophomores ignore announcement.

Oct. 11. Poem donated by Ted (Jellyroll) Hodson:

"Is there a soul at EAO
Who hasn't told his conscience where to go
And sneaked off to the show?
If so . . . what a joker!
Who hasn't thrown caution completely away
By, on Sunday, deciding to play
A game of cards? . . . maybe poker.
Who suffers from sense of guilt
When a fire in his wastebasket he has built?
Get some water! Soak 'er!"

Oct. 12. Fletcher gets elected president of the academy only to discover that there is no academy. Reds and Blues clash to open football season—no score—fine game.

Oct. 13. Prof. Elizer glances out window of classroom and spots Robbie. Halts class long enough to tell her to go home to her mama.

"Can't, I need the sleep."

Oct. 15. S. M. is walking down street in Covington with his date when Lib rides by him and yells, "Hey, Sugarman!"

Oct. 16 One student to another as they depart on double date: "I've told my girl I'm a wheel on the campus, so don't you tell her differently."
Oct. 17. Congratulations to Prof. William (Abu) Baker for presenting an enjoyable chapel speech. He also showed the students a picture of the beautiful feminine artist who was to perform here, but then refused to show it to the faculty on the grounds that they were supposed to attend the performance to hear the music. Rain and cold weather begin. When will we see the sun again—spring maybe?

Oct. 18. “Wild Bill” Kennedy has a birthday and is congratulated by the student body in chapel. Wonder how old he is, 17 or 18?

Oct. 19. “B” Company arises from the depths of shame to the heights of fame by defeating “A” Company 25-6. This is the first time “B” has won in several seasons. Congratulations!

Oct. 20. Student’s nose starts bleeding profusely in Pierce. Sympathetic Stancel says, “Those pants are pretty blood-stained, but we can clean ’em up for you.”

Oct. 21. Two students walk into Covington barber shop and ask startled barber for a “Duckbutt” haircut.

Oct. 22. Notes on chow hall: Why do we get butter every morning with toast previously soaked in butter, and get nothing with dry corn bread for supper?

Oct. 23. Jamies has only two months to live—take pity, Dot!

Oct. 24. Mr. Light breaks up bull session in Becton’s room only to find Mr. Kennedy leading the discussion, which, by the way, was about women.

STRAND THEATRE

Covington, Georgia
Oct. 25. Midterms start. Freshmen rush to infirmary to secure relief for nervous stomachs.

Oct. 26. B Co. defeats C Co. 6-0. What a slaughter! Somebody gets dragged out after every play. Player remarks after 10 minutes of play, "Anyone wanna play a game of ping-pong?"

Oct. 27. The kind hand of fate intervenes and leaves Haygood with no hot water. Now, after being burned in class, students can get cooled off in dormitory.

Oct. 28. The dietitian could console herself if only a part of the people complained some of the time, or if only a part of the people complained all of the time. The trouble is that all of the people complain all of the time.

Oct. 29. Mr. Kennedy, on finding Burton asleep during inspection, exclaims, "Burton, you sorry rascal, I wish we were still in the Navy so I could put you on report!"

Oct. 30. In Atlanta Palmer walks up to old man about 75 years of age and asks, "Does your mother know where you are?"

Oct. 31. 8:15 A.M.—Veterans get paid. 8:30 A.M.—Veterans are broke.

Nov. 1. The witches prowled and the goblins howled last night, or were humans responsible for the cow in Squire's classroom?

Nov. 2. Mid-term grades are given out. Several students order kigmies; others contemplate suicide.

Nov. 3. We notice the heating system is better this year—it stays on fifteen minutes every day instead of the usual five minutes.

Nov. 4. Taylor goes to great pains to climb over fence at football game in Covington. He gets to top before he spots a policeman on the other side of the fence.

Nov. 5. The sun has been out for two days. What's wrong with this universe?

Nov. 6. One student to another, "Let's eat out tonight." "Okay," says the second student, as they take their sack suppers and depart for the Huddle to get a coke.

Nov. 7. What’s this about the coeds’ raising the average student body academic standing? (Dot excluded, of course.)

Nov. 8. A Co. plays a good game today even though they did get beat. The game was highlighted by Rawls, who butted his head on the ground when he missed an easy pass, and by Prof. Kennedy, who was the chief passer on the City of Oxford Ten Year Olds’ team during the half.

Nov. 9. The amateur show proves to be a big success with Joe Johnson running away with all the prize money. He explained Mr. Haynes’ theory of the little difference between men and women.

Nov. 10. Student forced to laugh when he sees Mr.
Wiley standing by Mr. Allen.

Nov. 11. Mr. Strozier’s philosophy class is running the Glee Club a mighty close second. Palmer, Joe, and Dot are the featured artists.

Nov. 12. These 10-watt bulbs, which are used in the halls of the dorms, must be for the purpose of indirect lighting. One has to strike a match to see if the light is on!

Goes to class. Gets test. Even more irritating.
Another student asks for cigarette. Most irritating.
Fight begins.

Nov. 14. Freshman discovers there really are three coeds on campus. Lucky girls!

Nov. 15. Mr. Pierce is seen out on campus looking under rocks and leaves. When asked what he is doing, he replies, “I’m looking for the truth.” Oh well, he’s just another of the members of the philosophy class.

Nov. 16. Sack suppers run out. Students who didn’t receive one threaten to start a civil war and go on a hunger strike. Are they kidding?

Nov. 17. Two students eating cotton candy at circus in Atlanta. Says one to the other after they have eaten half the candy: “Taste anything yet?”

Nov. 18. Costas makes “C” on a test. Thinks about transferring to another school.

Nov. 19. Mr. Strozier says that some basic psychological drive might be exemplified by students singing in showers, but he wishes they would stop—especially after 11.

Nov. 20. Flash! The “B” section junior proctor was violently struck today by flying matter! Condition—critical!

Nov. 21. Carl Heard found sleeping in the broom closet since his bed “wandered.”

Nov. 22. Half of student body planning to “roar” down to Pineview during coming holidays.

Nov. 23. Thanksgiving holidays begin—students go home to rest.

Nov. 24. Thanksgiving holidays end—students return to school to rest.

Nov. 25. Everyone back from holidays except Lester Arnold—seems he detoured through Griffin. Ed Hodge spent the night on his suitcase.

Jan. 5. Mr. Kennedy places Hodson on stage in chapel to keep him from going to sleep everyday.

Jan. 4. Jamie confesses he’s in love again, but with whom? Dean Eady gives pep talk on tardiness to chapel. Halfway through his talk, Mr. Pickett walks in.

Jan. 3. Pierce Dormitory practically empty as students pour into Haygood. “Bishop” Knowles moves in from Old Church.

Jan. 2. Winter quarter begins. Students trudge wearily over to Seney to receive work details for next three months.

Dec. 13. More notes on chow hall: Quote Mr. Light, “Well, it’ll soon be cold enough for ice tea.”

Dec. 12. Notes on chow hall: Why do we get butter every morning with toast previously soaked in butter, and get nothing with dry cornbread for supper?

Dec. 11. Sunday and no heat! Everyone stays in bed even though the girls are here.

Dec. 10. LaGrange girls arrive. Lucky Glee Club boys entertain with a dance. Clem has the hives again and finds he is allergic to Dot.

Dec. 9. Mr. Elizer calls meeting of dorm students and says he will not broach his subject negatively. He goes on to commend those students who act like humans in the chow line.

Jan. 19. The food has really been improving lately. You're right—we could think of nothing else to say.

Jan. 20. Hodson overheard saying “Kennedy gives me an F every morning in history and then beats me in pool every afternoon.”

Jan. 21. No complaints today, not even about the food, weather, lessons, or tests.

Jan. 22. Glee Club has bad day today in church. They get off to a bad start when Mr. Kennedy gets stung by a wasp, and then they end by singing “Amen” in the middle of Dr. Jarrell’s prayer.

Jan. 23. A good time was had by all in chapel today when we got to open our mouths. Lester did a very good imitation of a bass drum.

Jan. 24. Two noticeable absences among the students this quarter: Costas and Murdock.

Jan. 25. Mr. Light “slips off” to Huddle for a fast game of pool.
Jan. 26. Mr. Jarrard finds difficulty in holding textbook when Dot appears in German class.

Jan. 27. Mr. Kennedy and S.M. are both in the infirmary. With only one blanket between them, they reportedly spent the night stealing it from each other.

Jan. 28. Uible gives spectators a thrill by scoring 37 points in the basketball game against B Co.

Jan. 29. Fraternity initiates from the big campus invaded our own campus for the night. They proved to be a little irritating when they began a search for Coca-Cola bottles in all rooms at 3 o'clock in the morning.

Feb. 3. Mr. Baker is the latest member of the faculty's NCC (New Car Club).

Feb. 4. The author of Mr. Kennedy's history remains anonymous. Hope he's not a history student.
Feb. 5. Card posted on new bulletin board reads: “Welcome to Christmas Fellowship.”

Feb. 6. Anti-Emory forces have been found on our campus. Two reprobates decide to remain on campus the entire quarter and find these forces.

Feb. 7. Another of Dean Eady’s 45 second introductions today, lasting 3 full minutes.

Feb. 7. Dr. Sutton is enjoyed as much this year as last. He seemed to get a kick out of the fact that a dance was announced inside the chapel.

Feb. 10. Scene from one of Mr. Gregory’s English 101 classes; Mr. Gregory is assigning Shakespeare’s plays to class:

Feb. 18. Seen from second floor of Seney: James Clements, Lib, and Mr. Elizer skipping arm in arm towards co-op.

Feb. 17. Faculty comments: Mary Bo is called a droon-tailed chicken by Mrs. Strozier. Sara appears in dining hall, dress in hand. (Why is your face so red, Bob Thompson?)

Feb. 16. The word around campus these days is "That lucky Newberne!" Haven't been able to find out who Virginia's sailor friend is.

Feb. 15. Joke heard at Race Relations Day Service: On the campus of a Negro college, there was a Negro who was very black. Because of this, he received the nickname "Midnight." One day as Midnight was walking across the campus, another student shouted at him, "Hey, Midnight!" Midnight shouted back, "Don't you call me Midnight, nigger. You is 'bout half past eleven, youself."

Feb. 21. Dean Eady has a few qualms about the many medical leaves being taken. After classes at least a dozen boys can be seen leaving campus for home and the doctor. What's her name?

Feb. 22. How news travels around this campus! By breakfast everyone knew about Mr. Haynes' trying to do some fancy acrobatics over in A Section.

Feb. 23. Glee Club left on an extended tour. Mr. Baker went along to chaperone Mr. Kennedy—not that he needed it. Valdosta and Atlanta basketball teams arrive for All-Emory tournament. Always more boys—never girls.

Feb. 24. Overheard from one of the long-married teachers on the campus: "Well, you know, there's human nature, and then there's woman nature." C Company wins tournament with second string of A Company placing second. Trophies and basketballs are awarded, with a special award going to Bill Hendry for outstanding sportsmanship and leadership. Congratulations, Bill, and all you Lettermen!

Feb. 25. Reports are that certain of the Glee Club members went wild when fed so much good food and were unable to perform in a certain city.

Feb. 26. Conversation overheard between a student and our youngest professor: "I've lost all faith in human nature. I tried to bribe you; I brought you an apple every day; I sat on the front seat; I tried everything, and what happened? You still gave me a D!"
March 3. Appearance of a black cocker spaniel on campus causes much commotion on campus and marks the beginning of a new era. He is affectionately named Roscoe, but it is thought he may have been called other names under the breaths of some professors when he interrupts classes by scratching on doors.

March 4. Those lucky women! Our own Professor Kennedy spoke today to the Oxford Woman's Club.

March 5. Student custom: Feed it to Roscoe first. Wait for results. If safe, proceed.

March 6. Bob, Dot, and Mr. Pickett were only five minutes late this morning, but because of such great haste, the little blue Plymouth was smoking all over.

March 7. Several Oxford boys ride a city bus in Atlanta and get transfers for souvenirs. You'll have to get out more often, boys.

Feb. 27. The freshmen have at last acquired a most important piece of knowledge. They have learned to wear their raincoats all the time regardless of how the sky looks.

Feb. 28. Pity the coeds! They always have to sit on the front row where they are in plain view of all faculty members, never being able to study, eat, talk, or sleep.

March 1. At least a change in the hum-drum life around the dormitory occurred last night when a man under the influence of intoxicating beverages visited the boys in Pierce. Seems he was looking for some fellow named Pete, but having no success in locating his friend, even with the able assistance of some of the inmates, he gave up the ghost and wandered away.

March 10. Collar catches up on his childhood diseases by having chicken pox. And it being one week until exams.

March 11. Jean Pierce likes the infirmary life so well he goes back and remains through weekend.

March 12. Another Sunday and more girls coming by in good looking cars. But by nature we Emory boys (excuse me), Emory gentlemen, would much rather stay inside and study.

March 13. Our last chance to try to persuade the professors to give us a clue as to the tests we will be taking for the next few days.

March 14. Here they are. A river of smoke covers the campus as students' brains are exerted beyond their normal capacities. Those studying for their psychology final quit and throw a party in the lounge at Haygood. The jaybirds finally cease their flight and the students leave for a long weekend at home.

March 21. Students begin filtering in toward sunset. I hear that Hendry got back early this morning. I wonder why?

March 22. Let's visit the home of a typical Oxford student over the holidays. A neighbor comes to student's house and begins chatting with student's mother, "Is your son at home for the holidays?" Mother: "I think so. His suitcase has been in the hall since Friday."

March 23. Baseball practice begins and it looks as if the teams are pretty equally divided as to talent. According to Mr. Brown, we have no pitchers so far—they're just chunkers. Tennis also gets under way and produces unusual forms on the courts.

March 24. The remainder of the annual sports pictures were made today, much to the relief of students and staff alike. Don't look too hard for the tennis shoes in the baseball pictures—we hid them on the back row. And with much swapping of shirts, caps, etc., the pictures were finally completed.

March 25. There's nothing like waking on a beautiful Saturday morning and knowing you must spend three hours in a classroom. Some of the Newnan boys felt very reckless and took those cuts to roar over to their home for a square dance.

March 26. Maybe the weather had something to do with it, but there was an unusually large representation of students at church Sunday. Brooks, Patton, and Hendry appear in dining hall with ties on. The occasion? Yes, guests of the opposite sex—two of them were strangers.

March 27. The members of Mr. Gregory's English 101 class no longer have to synchronize their watches, for he has appointed a timekeeper from among the ranks of our coeds.
March 28. Dr. Henry continues his series of inspirational talks in chapel. SAC meets and decides on a student formal this quarter.

March 29. Didn’t know we had so many brains on campus till five new members were inducted into AEU. Sociology students may be found at any time of the day or night in the library.

March 30. Fine Arts student misunderstood Mr. Baker’s assignment. Thought he said to study be-bop; Mr. Baker said “Pre-Bach.”

March 31. Goodbyes are said to Dr. and Mrs. Henry after their week’s visit with us. Brooks and Patton tear off for Athens. Lucky merit list boys leave in droves. Deadline for annual is tomorrow, so this nonsense must cease.

April 1. No tests till Probation! April fool!

Here’s hoping our little column will help you recall the events of the past school year. For those who do not know, this has all been written in a spirit of fun and should be read in like manner. Our thanks for the work on this book go especially to Jimmy Hooten and Glen Mitchell, who were not staff members, but did much toward the production of the 1950 Memory.
