"COEDS"
The Year the Co-eds Came to Oxford . . .

Many things about Oxford will never change. Many things about Oxford need no change, however, for they are fundamental to the educational program which this school carries on.

In one respect the school took a giant step forward during this school year. In admitting co-eds to residence on the Oxford campus the school broke from the precedent of a more than century-old policy.

The revolution was a success. Our co-eds took over “D” section of Haygood and fondly dubbed it the “Doll House.” Our boys dressed neater, because they wanted to and studied harder, because they had to.

The 1956 MEMORY is proud to salute you, co-eds. This has been a year fuller and richer because — this is the year that you came to Oxford.
In dedicating this yearbook to you, Mama Grigg, we want you to know that we will always remember the fine meals you fixed for us. They were more than food and they more than filled.

This tribute to a fine lady is from our hearts. It is a small way of saying, with love and memories, “thanks.”

Mrs. Leila Grigg
To the Students of 1956:

This year's MEMORY goes to press with the high esteem of the Oxford campus for the students and the college experience which it captures. The first graduates of our four-year junior college program are included; at least two years of commendable intellectual achievement and other growth are represented by the other graduates, with several showing real distinction; those who are returning next year are thorough participants in the Oxford intention. The spirit and resourcefulness of practically the whole group give the college its greatest reward — a sense of work well done, which is our greatest source of confidence and encouragement for the future. I congratulate you and thank you.

During the period of your residence on the Oxford campus, our faculty, curriculums, and operations were thoroughly reviewed by a committee of nationally distinguished educators under assignment of the North and South Georgia Conferences of The Methodist Church. The published report of the committee reflects in part the quality of our student body at this time, and it contains high commendations and recommendations.

Partly because of this report, the University now contemplates vigorous, long-time programs for the Oxford plant and its educational services. It would be impossible for either students or faculty or those of us in administration to claim the greater credit for this success. We are doing it together, and since these advances are not recorded elsewhere in this volume, I am glad to mention them here.

Among the deepest satisfactions coming to the person who sits where I sit are the visits and letters from former students as they go on to the University and into their adult experience. The interest shown in Oxford is always appreciated, but come for a visit. Maybe there'll be a chapel, when we are all together (ten o'clock on Mondays and Thursdays is fairly sure); certainly there will be food in the dining hall. And we will want to sit down (or walk around), not only to reminisce, but also ask: What thoughts now engage you? What hopes are you holding high?

1956 has been a great year in Oxford's history. For the sophomores it has marked the end of two years of the best that Oxford had to offer. There have been moments from this year which we, as sophomores, will try to forget and moments, too, which we will want to remember.

For the freshman this year has meant adjustment to college life and work. It has meant new friends and new responsibilities. There have been moments from this year which we will try to forget and moments, too, which we, as freshmen, will want to relive in our next year at Oxford.

Silence is deep as eternity; Speech is as shallow as time.

From the Student Judiciary Council, our governing body on the campus, to Few and Phi Gamma, our literary societies, the organizations of Emory-at-Oxford offer an aid to the students, and an opening for fun, fellowship and service.

These comprise a most necessary part of our school life. The Honor Code, school services, literary and music appreciation and social events have greatly strengthened through our organizations. We shall always remember the fun we had from our participation in them, and the benefits we received from living up to their standards.

Students at Oxford live under a simple Honor Code which forbids lying, cheating, or stealing. The Code is administered by a council composed of four elected student leaders and two appointed faculty members.

In all cases of breach of honor, it is the council’s duty to meet and to determine guilt or innocence and to recommend punishment to school officials.

The two alternate members of the SJC this year were Matt Thompson and Bob Franklin and two faculty members were appointed to serve on the council.

The Student Activities Council is the directing body for all clubs, activities and social functions which grace the Oxford year. The S. A. C. plans and effects the Fall and Spring Formals and allots funds from the S. A. C. Bank to the clubs according to their need and previous activity.

Mr. Elizer, Mr. Landt, and Coach Partin are the faculty advisors who served with the S. A. C. and helped it perform its giant task this year.

Bob Franklin, R. A. C. President

The Religious Activities Council is the governing body for all religious clubs on campus. Each spring, in a student body election, the officers for the next year's council are elected. These officers and representatives of the various religious clubs make up the council and direct not only the clubs but also religious movements such as Religious Emphasis Week.

Mr. Reese Griffin has done a splendid job as advisor and the entire council has served well in the student activities of Oxford.

and the Religious Clubs . . .

The religious clubs are rather active on the Oxford campus. Although most of the students are Methodist, there are many students of other faiths. The Baptists, through the B. S. U. and the church in Covington, maintain an interesting program of activities.

The Pre-Ministerial Club is non-denominational and plays an important role in preparing students for full time Christian service.
The highest honor that can come to an Oxford student is to be selected for membership into Eta Sigma Psi. Eta Sigma Psi men are picked on the basis of their scholastic achievements, leadership ability, and devotion and service to the school.

An annual staff without a workroom is the most disorganized organization which can possibly exist. In spite of a great many difficulties which were beyond its control, however, the 1956 MEMORY staff has completed the job it began. There are laurels to hand and aspersions to throw, but these things must be done in person.

It is our hope that all you who lived this year in the surroundings where this publication was compiled will have rich memories in the years to come when you open this book and review the record you and your buddies made.

Billy, Joanne, Rufus and Marilyn; Raymond, Harlan, Nathan, Mike, Kendall, Robert and Wilfred bring the work to an end, as it were a tale that is told. (The Book of Common Prayer.)
After countless days of running out of gas, burning out generators, mistaking people, making errors, and hearing, “Come back tomorrow,” the money for the MEMORY was finally raised. It has been hard at times, but now that we see the finished product, we know that all our efforts were worthwhile. It is with deep appreciation that we say thanks to those who have helped make the business end of the 1956 MEMORY a success.

The Emory-at-Oxford Glee Club is the most active club on the campus. Its many activities through the year include a Christmas concert, a winter tour, a spring tour, and special music for weekly chapel programs.

The spring tour takes the Glee Club to many cities in Georgia and some in Florida. Membership in the Glee Club is limited to those students who show interest in music and display a special musical talent.

Dr. Joseph E. Guillebeau is the director of the Glee Club and Mrs. M. E. Goode is the accompanist. Wilfred Boykin was assistant accompanist and did a remarkable job filling for Mrs. Goode at several concerts.

Most of the clubs on campus suffered in quantity of members, and Few was not an exception. However, outstanding freshman loyalty has assured a successful future for the club.

Few was responsible for many fine dances during the year. The Hank Osburn Band turned out to be a wonderful group and it traveled to several schools to perform. The band was first sponsored by the Few Society.

MIKE TERRAL .............. Secretary-Treasurer

Phi Gamma Society was formed in the spring of 1837, the first year of the college. Enthusiasm and hard work characterized the first years of the society. During the War Between the States, Phi Gamma Hall was used as a Confederate hospital. This building was one of the few left by the Yankees.

Phi Gamma maintains the same objectives for which it was founded, public speaking, debating, development of students' interest in culture and intellect, and social life.

This year Phi Gamma prepared a cloak room for the cafeteria and sponsored various social functions.

Circle K is the service club of the Oxford campus. It is affiliated with Kiwanis International and this year's club voted to join the newly-formed Circle K International organization. The club has many projects this year, as it customarily does, and particularly was successful in raising money for charity.

Mr. Dickey and Major Thigpen have been actively interested in the club and have been responsible for Circle K men attending the meetings of the Covington Kiwanis Club. Membership in Circle K is by invitation.

LETTERMAN’S CLUB

OFFICERS

MATT THOMPSON .................. President
CECIL CURRY ..................... Vice-President
BOBBY CHAPPELL ................. Secretary-Treasurer

Martha Lokey named Lettermen’s Sweetheart

One of the greatest achievements to be earned by an athlete in any major sport at Emory-at-Oxford is to become a member of the Lettermen’s Club.

It is an honorary organization whose membership is limited to those who have displayed athletic talents and have met the requirements to earn the “E”.

The traditional initiation is the most memorable event experienced by Lettermen, but the club sponsored several social events and their annual banquet. Coach Meyer and Coach Partin serve as advisors for the club.

The Florida Club is a worthwhile club whose membership is restricted to students from the “Sunshine” state.

Under capable Al Watson, the club has sponsored several dances, supplied direction signs to the college which were placed along the highway, and aided greatly in the Oxford sports program.
Dignified president.

Dooley’s Dolls is an organization for the co-eds. In its second year on the Oxford campus, the club has added much to the social life of the students and some of its members have actively participated in extra-curricular activities.

One of the primary purposes of the club, besides giving the co-eds an opportunity for service to the school, has been to create increased interest in dramatics and related activities. Mrs. C. David Anderson is the faculty advisor.

Dolls on stairs: Shumate, Boring, Hatcher, Minter, Cockerham; Smith, Neeley; O’Bryant, Hutchins, Seoggins, Lokey; Davies, Bass; Mize, Bennett, Terral, Hurn, Lumpkin.

The Littlest Angel
We feel that neither beauty nor accomplishment should pass unrecognized. Thus, through our features, we wish to recognize that most worthy of these honors. Our beauty queen and her court, chosen by one of Georgia’s leading women, add a touch of beauty to our annual and occupy a prime place in our feature section. Those who have been chosen by their fellow students as most worthy of honors also are recognized for their fine achievements.

We feel that those recognized well deserve their honor, and we are proud that we may devote our feature section to them.
In his first year at Oxford he was elected to the highest student office on the campus. In his second year he was rewarded for the fine job which he had done through a student election which picked him Number One Citizen.

“Smiley” has displayed high qualities of leadership and character and has found enough time in his busy schedule to be a friend to all.

This is a salute to you, Mr. Number One Citizen of 1956.

“Up in the air Junior Birdmen, up in the air upside down.”

We at Emory-at-Oxford are proud of our Air Force ROTC unit. Students are given much training in the science of Air Force technique. This will prepare many for further military services. We feel that this program has benefitted immensely each student who has participated in it. The excellent training they have received will be an asset throughout the rest of their lives.

We look forward to gazing someday into the “Wild Blue Yonder” and seeing our “fly boys” in their Piper Cubs.

Emory-at-Oxford's program of intramural athletics offers an excellent outlet to each student to display and improve his physical abilities.

This year's activities, which were directed by the Intramural Athletic Committee, included thirteen major and minor sports. Company rivalry in most of the contests was spirited, especially in the Winter and Spring quarters.

The sore muscles, sprained ankles and nose bleeds which we received in tough play will mean much to us in coming years, and we will never forget the fun we had in winning and losing and playing.

Though the most be players, Some must be spectators.
Emory-at-Oxford’s fine program of intramural athletics is directed by a committee composed of one student group leader from each athletic company, a student director, and the director of intramural athletics.

The I.A.C. has been in existence since 1953 and this has been one of its most successful years. Al Watson, Matt Thompson, Jimmy Sneed, Bill Clark, and Coaches Meyer and Partin deserve the thanks of all who have participated in Oxford’s athletics.

Coach P. plans the soccer games.

CONGRATULATIONS to Al, Matt, Jimmy and Bill from Coach Meyer.
Oxford's football program failed to live up to expectations this year. Early in the season B Company folded and A and C had difficulty in keeping their teams together.

A and C Companies tied for first place points in the competition as a result of the final, hardfought game. In that game, Don Gill, Doug Patterson and company managed a scoreless tie to prevent A Company from taking football's first place—ten points.

A picture of the season as a whole shows that although this was not the pigskin's year at Oxford, there were several outstanding individual players on all Companies.

Keith Moore and Bob Kluck were B Company's main threats before B withdrew. C Company showed quarterback Don Gill and Halfback Gene Bass and linemen Bill Coker and Tommy Cleary. For A Company, Doug Smith, “Chip” Fowler and Charles Marshall were the standouts.
"A" Company lettered three freshmen and one Sophomore. Chip Fowler, "A" quarterback, Joe Hughes, and Bob Kluck and speedy Sammy Nix received the athletic awards for their football performances.

"C" Company awards went to Gene Bass, Don Gill, and Tommy Cleary, and Company leader, Bill Clark.

The short and quiet football season showed a record for the season of these scores.

The Freshman-Sophomore wind-up of football activities proved an upset victory for Coach Meyer's Freshmen, led by Gene Bass and Chip Fowler in the backfield and Bob Kluck and Tommy Cleary in the line.

WHAT IS a University?

It is more than a collection of books; it is a meeting place for the wisdom of the learned and the enthusiasm of the young. From this meeting place—from the laboratory and the playing field, from the classroom and the dormitory—it radiates its influence, not only into the community of which it is a part but into the everyday lives of all who call it Alma Mater.
