Whether it was a formal, a blood drive, or the Smudge Pot, all of the special events displayed the diverse side of Oxford.
A Different Perspective

It's all in how you look at it...

Oxford, a different perspective for every student. A lot of different and unique perspectives make up students' experiences here at Oxford. Clubs, dorms, sleep, classes, parties, and other events make the two years at Oxford special and unforgettable. What each student makes out of it depends on the student. It can be anything...it's all in how you look at it.

Stephanie Vial shows her pride for Rotaract.
On a cool October evening, Oxford students migrate onto the Quad for a night of fun and games sponsored by various clubs. The options students could choose from included face painting, dunking members of SGA, and the hit of the night, mud wrestling. Many prizes, such as T-shirts and gift certificates were won by the student body. All in all, a great time was had by everyone.
Casino Night

This year Casino night was held twice because it was so much fun. The first was held during NCAAW week and the second was held to celebrate the opening of the Lizard Lounge in the JRC. Oxford students could try their hand at black-jacks, craps, and poker. There were also refreshments and great prizes to end the evening.

Kylie Higgins, Keesh Boyd, Agatha Turner and Kelsey Sykes waiting to scream “black-jack” at Angela Hunter’s table.

Dooley's Wake

In late September, Dooley's Dolls hosted Dooley's annual wake in the tavern. Even though he did not choose to make an appearance, it was a great chance for the new freshman and sophomores to get to know each other. Food as well as great music were provided for everyone to dance to all night long.

"Shhh...you need to get some new lines - none of those will work on me" says Georganne Ganas to another admirer.

Blood Drive

Twice this year a blood-drive was sponsored by the Red Cross volunteers at Oxford College. Students were able to donate a pint of their blood in exchange for cookies, crackers, and drinks offered by Circle K. Held in the Student Center Rathskeller and in the t.v. room, it was easier for students to donate and to earn an Oxford Studies point at the same time.
For Oxford students, the tavern is the place for many great events. Every Thursday, students have their choice of coffees and cheese-cake at the Smudge Pot. On the weekends, it is home to many great tavern parties and events such as Luau, Dooley’s Wake, and Toga Party.

Marco Ayulo, Jeremy Zedell and Matt Dishner follow the creed - when in Rome... Do as the Romans do.

Fall Formal

“The Night on the Nile” was a night for Oxford students to dress up and get down. Everyone danced the night away in the Fox Theatre’s Egyptian Ballroom but made sure to take time out to pose for pictures. The evening was made even more exciting by the appearance of Dooley, his bodyguards, and one of his much-anticipated letters.

David Duley, Beau Giles and Andy Turke spent this Saturday night at the Fox instead of the Hula Hut.

The Memory yearbook compiles all the various aspects of Oxford College, including profiles of students, faculty, and their lives on campus.

Editor's Note

I could never have completed this book without the help of so many people. Here are some very special thank yous.

To Advisor, Terry Elam, for allowing the staff to live in her office during the week of deadlines. Also for being supportive and always there for me.

To Jostens Representative Dale Bennett for a foundation that created an outstanding yearbook.

To Pat Brookshire, who helped tremendously and still carries her nick name "The Computer Goddess." I can not express my thanks to you.

To photographer Barry "Elvis" Stowe, "Thank ya, thank ya very much".

To all students, faculty, and everyone who helped with pictures and information.

To Jamie Golden, what can I say. You are the true editor.

To the Memory staff, it's hard to imagine that just the five of us did so much work. Thanks for your dedication. "I'm a caption, how 'bout you?"

To Shawn Devine, thank you so much for all the pictures and insight. You are the greatest.

To Res Life and Campus Life, I think the yearbook would have been a week late if we had to wait for Terry's printer.

To my residents on my hall for putting up with me during deadlines. I guess I should say the absence of your RA. I love you guys, "Let's watch Melrose."

To the faculty, staff, and student body of Oxford College. Thanks for the memories, without you there would be no reason for a yearbook.

Omicron Phi Omega, is an Oxford selective service club. The purpose is to stimulate unity and promote cultural diversity among members and within Oxford, Covington, and the Atlanta area. Through service projects and community activities, Omicron Phi Omega has made a reputable impact and will continue to do so in the future. A few of the projects Omicron Phi Omega has been involved in are Habitat for Humanity, homeless shelter visits, serving in Atlanta soup kitchens, car washes, Carnival on the Quad, and many others.

Oxford Catholic Student Union

The Oxford Catholic Student Union is a club dedicated to strengthening faith and which strives to promote it in everyday life at Oxford. The goal this year was primarily to give service to the community and to make a difference in others’ lives.
Oxford Fellowship

Oxford Fellowship is an ecumenical Christian group that meets three times a week. There are biweekly worship services that usually include a student led devotional and some fellowship time. The club meets on Tuesday nights and the activities vary. Usually the students participate in a group discussion, there are occasional guest speakers, and sometimes there is just a fun night. Oxford Fellowship is involved with many volunteer projects each semester, the biggest of which is SERVE, a campus-wide volunteer day in the spring. Oxford Fellowship is a very open, honest group with completely open membership...no tap ins or selections...just welcoming grins.

PALS

Peer Assistance Leaders are a selected group of sophomores who greet incoming freshmen during orientation, lead freshman seminars, and help to bring the Oxford community together. Throughout the year, they were seen bringing spirit all over campus.

Phi Theta Kappa is an honor society which symbolizes scholarship and ideals among students at two-year colleges. The members of Phi Theta Kappa represent the top academic 5% of the sophomore class at the beginning of the fall semester.

Phi Gamma Literary Society

Phi Gamma Literary Society is devoted to providing an outlet for poets and writers to express their work freely and openly. Several events are held throughout the year to support the artistic endeavors of the Oxford writing community. An open-mike poetry reading is held each semester, and students can place their work on the Phi Gamma conference in LearnLink. Two collections of poetry are created each year: "Verbal Assault", on view in the LEAP lounge, and "Entropy", distributed around campus. Besides organizing the above-mentioned events, the club also holds bimonthly meetings, and students are invited to come and read their works.

Organizations
Photography & Art Club

The Oxford Photography and Art Club is a newly established organization that recognizes the need to promote the arts on campus. OPArt provides the time and materials for students interested in photography, drawing, sculpting and painting. Trips to the High Museum of Atlanta, murals on campus and student photography and art shows are just some of the activities open to art lovers on campus.

The purpose of the Residence Hall Association is to provide student leadership in matters of concern to the residents of Oxford College. It also promotes a variety of activities to meet student needs and serves as a student voice in promoting improvements in the residence halls. RHA gives students a chance to learn responsibility toward one another and their community.

ReVision is Oxford College’s organization that actively focuses on women’s issues. Membership is open to all students and faculty members who share the common goal of getting past old stereotypes. Activities include attending cultural events, sponsoring campus events like Rape Awareness Week, commemorating Black History Month, watching and discussing films, and organizing programs to address issues that affect women.
Rotaract

Rotaract is a social-service club at Oxford College which fosters the spirit of volunteerism as well as forms tight bonds between members. This year Rotaract has been very active, helping with the Covington Clothes Closet, participating in Carnival on the Quad, showing campus-wide movies, and co-sponsoring Toga tavern parties. Service to the community and the friendships within the club make Rotaract so special!

ROSA

ROSA, Rainbow Oxford Students Alliance, is Oxford’s club for gays, lesbians, bisexuals, and their straight supporters. The goal of ROSA is to make Oxford an open and accepting environment where lesbian, gay and bisexual faculty, staff, and students can live and work in cooperation. ROSA has weekly meetings, perform service projects, and invite speakers to keep the campus informed on lesbian / bisexual / gay issues.

Rugby

Oxford Rugby was originally developed to create additional activities for athletic persons on the Oxford campus. However, over the year, this group of people has developed a bond stronger than any other. Oxford rugby, although initially begun as just another Oxford club, has become a brotherhood forged in the blood and pain and desire of its members. Submerged in loyalty and with each individual member teeming with the desire to overcome and be victorious, Oxford rugby has proven to be quite successful both in inter-collegiate competition and in creating a unity that none of its members shall ever forget.

SAI

The Student Admission Association provided a service to the Oxford College community by helping to recruit potential students. Members hosted students overnight throughout the year, provided tours for prospective students, and welcomed accepted students and scholar candidates to Visitaton and Preview Days. Each member also had a group of students for which he or she was responsible for writing and calling throughout the year to share their experiences at Oxford. The admission staff offered dinners and other benefits periodically to express appreciation for all of the help these students gave. There are over 75 active members.
The Student Activities Committee (SAC) coordinates and plans social activities throughout the year for the entire campus. Some of the events that we have worked on this year include Fall Festival, the Rathskellar Music Series, formals, Casino Nite, different parties and many other activities. The committee is chaired by Kalpana Patel and members of the committee are students who want to help increase the social life on campus.

The Student Government association is the student governing body representing students in all areas of the college. The S.G.A. works to insure basic student rights and to respond to the desires, needs, and concerns of the general student body. The S.G.A. is composed of the elected Executive Committee and Student Senators who represent the various constituencies. All students are invited to attend meetings and any student may submit legislation to be discussed.
S.I.R.E. stands for Students Involved in Recycling and the Environment. Its purpose is to teach students about the environment and show them ways to help save it.

SHARK (Student Handling Alcohol Responsibilities on “Kampus”) is an active organization dedicated to raising awareness of drug and alcohol use and abuse. The group organizes educational events, speakers, games and social activities as well as sponsoring National Collegiate Alcohol Awareness Week (NCAAW) and Safe Spring Break Week. This year, SHARK was presented with a national award for last year’s NCAAW programs.

The Spokesman

The Spokesman, Oxford's campus newspaper, informs, educates, and entertains the Oxford community and Emory affiliates about issues that concern or affect this campus. The staff goal is to establish an organized vehicle for a journalistic tradition at Oxford College.

Unidos

The purpose of this club is to create and maintain Hispanic identity and cohesiveness, as well as to promote the knowledge of Hispanic culture and heritage on the Oxford campus.
Volunteer Oxford is an organization offering campus and community volunteer opportunities to any student. Students may participate in regular service projects throughout the year which may include tutoring, babysitting, assisting at a homeless shelter, and hospital and nursing home volunteering. Some special projects include Carnival on the Quad, which is an on-campus benefit for underprivileged children.

The legend of Dooley all began in 1899 when a writer decided to vent his frustrations over the faculty and student body through the student publication, The Phoenix. The article did not mention the name of Dooley, but spoke of a skeleton purchased in 1850 and signed "C. A. W." This probably stood for Charles Anderson Weavers, a senior of that year. The formal introduction happened some ten years later, when Dooley wrote an article conveniently called, "By Way of Introduction." He explained his existence from the second floor of Pierce Science Hall as "a fleshless, bloodless, nerveless, brainless skeleton." Thus, the Spirit of Oxford was born.

Dooley continued to thrive on campus for a few years, until the college decided to move the campus into Atlanta. Apparently upset that he wasn't informed of the switch, Dooley did not resurface for some time before WWII. When he did make his appearance again, it was pro-student body and anti-faculty. Since then, Dooley spontaneously makes appearances, bearing letters of praise and admonishments which always seem to cause excitement among his followers.

For over a hundred and fifty years, Dooley has existed as the ghost that roams the college campus. He has become a permanent fixture of Oxford, especially during times when traditions seem to fail. Dooley is the true spirit of Oxford, and we, the students and faculty on campus, help to keep that spirit alive. In the words of Dooley: "Presidents may come; and presidents may go; students may come and professors may come and professors may go; students may come and students may go; but Dooley goes on forever."
As each student moves on from Oxford, she or he leaves with the tools to perceive the trials of life in a new light.

Affirmative Action

It was nearly three decades ago, after a series of race riots in Los Angeles, Nemwark and Detroit, that a commitment began to use race-based programs to improve the lives of blacks. It was called affirmative action. But in 1995-1996 affirmative action plans began to get weaker. The Supreme Court issued decisions making it harder to justify giving minorities and women preferences in awarding of federal contracts; and the Clinton Administration was reevaluating affirmative action programs.

Hillary Clinton

First Lady Hillary Clinton had difficulty this year in finding an appropriate role for herself, one that Americans would be comfortable with, after her prominent leadership of the administration’s failed health-care reform campaign. She remained an important adviser to the president. But in public, Mrs. Clinton concentrated on tasks more traditionally associated with first ladies—tasks such as her crusades to improve the lives of women and children.

The Million Man March

Hundreds of thousands of black men marched in Washington in a spirited rally for unity and brotherhood. The Million Man March was organized by Nation of Islam leader Louis Farrakhan. Participants were optimistic that one of the outcomes of the peaceful day of praying, singing, and speaking would be more understanding between blacks and whites.

The World Series

It took 30 years for the Atlanta Braves to win a World Series, but the fans say the wait was worth it. A sixth inning home run by David Justice gave the Braves a 1-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians for a 4-2 series triumph. The Braves had come close twice before, losing the Series in seven games to the Minnesota Twins in 1991 and in six games to Toronto in 1992.

Blues Traveler

Blues Traveler is a down-home Tennessee band with a unique style. On their most recent album, “Four,” the group lets their talent shine through with the same catchy tunes. As one critic said: “These tunes can be described as a spicy combo of on-the-edge-rock ‘n’ roll and hard-line country/western bluegrass music.”

General Colin Powell

General Colin Powell was national security officer under President Reagan and was appointed chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff by President Bush. He came to national attention during the Persian Gulf War against Iraq and never left the public eye. Although he ruled out running for the president as a Democrat, he said he was always attracted to politics and early in the presidential campaign he looked much like a candidate.

Bosnian Refugees

The civil war in the former continued as the 1995-96 school year began. Four years after the wars of Yugoslavia's destruction began, there was still no peace among the Croats and the Srbs and the Muslims. More than 3 million people have lost their homes, more than 200,000 have been killed and tens of thousands have become refugees. There remains a deep reservoir of bitterness throughout the former Yugoslavia, and NATO continues its attempt to bring peace to the Balkans.
Mickey Mantle

Mickey Mantle was one of the greatest baseball players who ever lived. From the time he broke into the major league in 1951, six months shy of his 20th birthday, until he retired following the 1968 season at the age of 37, Mickey Mantle inspired generations of fans with his power and ability. He died of a fast-spreading liver cancer at the age of 63, two months after a liver transplant.
Newt Gingrich

House speaker Newt Gingrich, a Republican congressman from Georgia, rose to the heights of Speaker of the House of Representatives. Gingrich was always considered a 1996 presidential candidate. He promised to overhaul more than a generation of social programs that began in the eras of the New Deal and the Great Society.
People who go to college are incredible. They go to classes. They read and absorb and are comprehensively tested on heavy amounts of various materials. They sleep very little. They eat themselves into oblivion. They kill themselves with several types of smoke. Someone is always sick. Someone is always complaining. They become attached to close friends. They smother each other. They lean too much. They think often of the past and want to go back. They know they cannot. They all have separate lives, families, perspectives, backgrounds, and pasts. They live totally different from how they used to live. They are frustrated and sometimes want to give up, but they never stop trying. They disregard health. They eat awful foods. They are forced to think about the future. They are scared and confused. They try to sort out their minds, which are filled with studies, worries, problems, memories, emotions—powerful feelings. They wander the halls looking for happiness. They hurt—a lot. They keep going, through, because above all else, they never stop learning, growing, changing, and most important dreaming. Dreams keep them going and they always will. All they can do is be thankful that they have something to hold unto, like dreams and each other. Oxford aids students in shaping their views of the present and the future.
