The 1997 Memory
Volume LXV

It's what YOU make of it!
Our Dearest Dooley,
For years you have graced us with your presence on this campus. For over one hundred and sixty years you have held a strong place in the hearts of many students. You are and have been our “spirit” here. I am sad to report that many of your most spirited followers are disappointed this year—the year that marks your one hundred and sixtieth birthday. One would think that the one hundred and sixtieth anniversary of your arrival would be a cause to celebrate. Unfortunately, many students have not had the golden opportunity to celebrate with you so far this year. Although there has been a plague of disappointed Dooley followers, you should know that you are always in our hearts, no matter how many times you appear. In your own words: “Presidents may come and presidents may go, professors may come and professors may go, students may come and students may go; but Dooley lives on forever.”

Dooley, you are what we make of you. I hope we can make you proud.
Student Life at Oxford can range from hanging out with your friends or studying on the quad. Heather Glassmire and Ally Tugman prove that learning doesn't always happen in the classroom.
Dave and Chris are no match for Super Bakay.

"No really, don't take the photo!"

Brain, showing your true colors.

"I can put this History paper back together by myself. No, I don't think this is funny!"
Oxford students dressed up in their finest for an “Evening Under the Stars” at the Egyptian Ballroom in the Fox Theater. Although Pooley did not make his annual appearance, the night was filled with plenty of good spirited partying.

What was the highlight of formal?

“Eating dinner with my friends before Formal.”

- Burgundy Thompson

“Stayin’ alive! Stayin’ alive! Ah, ah, ah, Stayin’ alive!”

- Bree Rawls

“Bumpin’ booties with Lil.”

- Krisha Carter

Ross Bradford and his date are all smiles on the dance floor.

Asha, Kiki, Sherita, and Tiffany taught us how it’s done on the dance floor.
Under the Stars
Mythical Greek gods and goddesses have been worshiped for centuries. Unfortunately, Oxford has their own mythical deities to hail above all others... or at least we tried. These characters are enough to make you lose your religion, or find a new one.

What held your toga together?

"It couldn't be my underwear because I wasn't wearing any underwear."
- Ricardo Pineda

"That would be my six-pack."
- Chris Wang

"A little something special!"
- Erin Halcomb

Hay Ruse Doogin', check my breath.

These women sure know how to wear a toga.
“Victor, how much did they really pay you to D.J.?”

Amber, Kelly, Jeremy, Sarah, and Seema show how not to wear a toga.

Toga, Toga, Toga
The Freshmen got their first lei during Freshman Orientation whether they wanted to or not. This first party of the year set the year off right and promised that many more celebrations would follow.

How was your first Lei at Oxford?

"It was hard, but good!"
- Cameron Coltharp

"It was a great way to get to meet people fast!"
- Jackie Hamilton

"It was fun at first, but everyone laughed at me after the first week."
- Robe Boy

Julie Sok was thrilled because she finally got to lei John Stephens.

Oh, poor Angus was distraught—he was denied a lei.

Julie and Rake Boy smile after finally getting a lei.
“Erika, can you teach Ashley how to get lei’d so many times?”

Vanessa breaks out with full Luau attire and shows some of us the real way to Hula. (“I’ll teach Alison and John that’s the wrong way.”)

“Do a little dance, drink a little wine, let down tonight.”

...at the SAC Luau
Someone call Steven Spielberg or Spike Lee, I think a star has been born! The fall play, A Midsummer’s Night Dream, directed by Kim West and performed by O.E.S.A. received a thunderous applause and rave reviews. This was a play to remember!

What was your best scene?

“As director, I strive to make every scene work and this cast made it easy to do.”

- Kim West

“These lovers like to dream on their feet.”

“Sword fighting, of course!”

- Fabio VanderMerwe

“Dancing with Derek.”

- Tasha Patterson

You do their work and it will bring them luck...

Thou art as wise as thou art beautiful...

Come, now roundel and a fairy song... now sing a sleep.

Night Dream
"Renee, where did all that mud come from?"

"What’s up, Rembrant?"

"CeCe, Tasha, Kelly, and Jee see get down and dirty."

"Robby, you got ‘spirit’, yeah, yeah!"

The wannabe drags of Oxford? (John Stevens, please help!)

It’s what YOU make of it!
Rachel Nall and her little sister in the Cousin’s Middle School mentor program take a trip to the big top.

Rachel, Emily, and Victor make future weekend plans. “Where ya going, Emily?”

“Wanna go for a ride?”
Forever friends.

Jana takes advantage of the new JRC balcony. “Hey Jana, wake up!”

“Nature boy, where’s your guitar?”
“Got milk?”

“Aaron, who’s your daddy?”

Student Life
Want to make an easy A and become more culturally educated? How about a quick way to get virtually the entire campus together all at once? Schedule an Oxford Studies performance or test. Oxford studies topics “Life After Oxford” and “Kaleidoscope” were both entertaining and informative. Thanks to Dr. Oliver, the student body ALWAYS had an alternative to studying.

The Oxford Ensemble of Shakespearean Artists was founded in 1996 by Kimberly A. West and Jennifer R. Taylor. It proved its worth as a theater company with its smashing first performance of A Midsummer Night’s Dream, directed by Kimberly West. O.E.S.A. is a student-directed and student-run organization that prides itself on tackling one of the hardest playwrights to perform, William Shakespeare.

Phi Gamma Literary Society

Phi Gamma Literary Society is devoted to providing an outlet for poets and writers to express their works openly. Several events are held throughout the year to support the artistic endeavors of the Oxford writing community. An open-mike poetry reading is held each semester, and students can place their works on the Phi Gamma conference on Learnlink. The final production of the year is The Oxford Review, a magazine of essays, fiction, and poetry by Oxford students, faculty, and staff.

Revision

Revision is Oxford's feminist forum for women and men. Recognized in 1996 as Oxford's Club of the Year, Revision has been a vital force on the campus as its members work to shatter old stereotypes and make Oxford a better place for everyone. This year the club began Oxford's chapter of The Atlanta Clothesline Project, coordinated Rape Awareness Week, presented many panels and projects for Women's History Month, and started work on a long-term women's history project.

ROSA

The Rainbow Oxford Student Alliance (ROSA) was founded in 1994 by Jason Chue and Kelly Morrow for the purpose of recognizing the gay, lesbian, and bisexual community at Oxford. Straight supporters are also a key part of the club. ROSA has been responsible for leading diversity training courses (Safe Space), coordinating Awareness Week, bringing various speakers to campus, and strengthening ties between the Oxford and the Atlanta campuses.

Rotaract

Rotaract is a social-service club affiliated with Rotary International. It fosters the spirit of volunteerism as well as forms tight bonds between members. This year Rotaract has been very active, helping with the Athens Homeless Shelter, participating in Carnival on the Quad, showing campus-wide movies, and co-sponsoring the Toga Tavern party. Service to the community and the friendships within the club make Rotaract special!

Rugby

Oxford Rugby was originally developed to create additional activities for athletic persons on the Oxford campus. However, over the years, this group of people has developed a bond stronger than any other. Oxford Rugby, although initially begun just as another club, has become a brotherhood forged in the blood and pain and desire of its members. Submerged in loyalty and with each individual member teeming with the desire to overcome and be victorious, Oxford Rugby has proven to be quite successful both in inter-collegiate competition and creating a unity that none of its members shall ever forget.

The Student Admission Association consists of approximately 70 Oxford College students who aid the admission staff in the recruitment of outstanding high school students. By conducting campus tours, housing students overnight, and taking students to visit classes, student hosts are able to demonstrate "real" life at Oxford. Student hosts also participate in campus visitation days, scholar days, and other special events, in addition to correspondence with prospective students by mail and phone.
